Big 3 Would Accept Parley Bid by Russians if 'Sincere'

WHERE DEATH-BENT TWISTER STRUCK. This is what is left of two Leander, La., homes after a tornado struck, killing seven persons. The other home, about a half mile away, looked much the same —a pile of rubble. Neighbors and sightseers are standing amid the wreckage. Leander is between Leesville and Alexandria.

Plane Crashes In Spain; 21 Feared Dead

U.S. Embassy Courier Among 12 Survivors Of Mountain Accident

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Twenty-one persons were feared dead today in the wreckage of a Spanish transport plane with 33 persons aboard which crashed and burned last night in the mountains north of Madrid.

An airline company spokesman announced 10 of the survivors, including Paul J. Douglas, 26, a courier for the U. S. Embassy in Paris, had arrived in Madrid and were hospitalized. Doctors forbade anyone to talk with the survivors, and the extent of their injuries was not immediately disclosed.

Father Was Congressman

Douglas, whose home is in West Roxbury, Mass., is a son of the late U. S. Rep. John J. Douglas, congressman from the 10th Massachusetts District from 1925 to 1935. He had been stationed in Paris since last March.

Also listed among the survivors is Jose Marie Oriol, prominent Spanish industrialist and developer of the "caterpillar train." Those hospitalized also included the pilot, co-pilot, mechanic, radio operator, and four passengers, all Spaniards.

The Roman Catholic parish priest of the tiny mountain village of Somo Sierra found the wreckage early today. He reported 12 survivors. Those who reached the hospital here had to make their way down through rugged mountainous terrain during the night.

Smashes Into Peak

The plane, a British-built Bristol operated by the Spanish Commercial Aviation Co. on a flight from Bilbao to Madrid, smashed into a rain-shrouded peak towering above the Somo Sierra Pass last night, 20 minutes before it was due in the Spanish capital.

A spokesman for the plane's owners said the American aboard was Paul J. Douglas, a U. S. State Department courier. He was reportedly attached to the Paris embassy.

Officials announced there were only six known survivors. Earlier

IKE ARRIVES FOR BIG THREE TALKS. President Dwight D. Eisenhower smiles broadly as he is greeted by British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill following arrival by plane at Bermuda's Kindley Field for history-making Big Three conference. At left is French Premier Joseph Laniel.

Reply Drawn To Moscow's Note on Big 4

Chiefs of Top Western States Outline Stand At Bermuda Meeting

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and French Premier Laniel have indicated agreement that the Western Powers must accept any opportunity for sincere talks with the Soviet Union on great issues, authoritative sources said today.

Outlining positions taken by the Western Big Three at their initial Bermuda session last night, informed diplomats said differences expressed principally involved questions of emphasis.

Churchill's Stand

Churchill reportedly told his colleagues the West should seek every opportunity to open up more contacts with the new rulers of Russia at every level.

Eisenhower was understood to have described the basic American view as: While tactics of the Kremlin have changed since Stalin's death, Russia's major aims of Communist world conquest remain unchanged under Premier Georgi Malenkov.

In the spirit of basic agreement that the interests of world peace demand willingness to talk over important questions with the Russians the Big Three approached consideration of a reply to Moscow on its acceptance of a Big Four foreign minister' meeting in Berlin.

A draft of the note has been completed for initial action by Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. These three will meet at 10 a.m. (EST), six hours before their chiefs assemble for their second session.

Far Eastern Issues

In addition to the Russian note, Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel may consider Far Eastern issues, among which future policies toward Red China, the Korean peace situation and recent Red hints at peace possibilities in Indochina stand out.

The draft of the reply to Russia's Thanksgiving Day bid for a conference at Berlin was understood to agree to the idea of a meeting. The question of whether the reply should specify an exact date for the get-together was reported still under discussion.

The draft rejects Russian arguments that the European Defense Community (EDC) is an aggressive move by the West. The EDC scheme calls for the formation of a six-nation European army, including German troops. The draft also emphasizes that the aim of the West is to discuss the unification of Germany and an Austrian independence treaty.

Informed sources said there was no intention of abandoning the Western position that free elections in both East and West Germany must come before the formation of an all-German government.

Time of Reply Uncertain

It is uncertain when the reply will be sent to Moscow since after final details are threshed out here the note will be sent to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for his reaction.

A formal communique jointly released after the meeting by spokesmen of all three nations said only that "They embarked on a general review of the world situation which will be continued."

Today, informed diplomats gave the following, somewhat fuller account:

Bidault, designated by Laniel to speak for him, devoted his time to a documented analysis of Russian internal problems, particularly the Kremlin's current efforts to boost agricultural production and produce more consumer goods. The implication was that the Malenkov government is more largely occupied than its predecessor with internal difficulties.

Churchill, asked by Eisenhower to speak next, said he thought the West must remain alert and strong and not lower its guard. He expressed the view, however, that some basic changes have occurred in Russia since Stalin's death and the new rulers have many internal problems.

Churchill added that the Western Powers should seek every oppor-

Factory Building at Bucyrus Destroyed in $150,000 Blaze

Allied Showing On Persuasion Stands at 130-0

None of South Korean Prisoners Interviewed Will Leave Red Camp

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Allied explainers today whipped an apparent maneuver by 40 pro-Red war prisoners to disrupt the U. N. Command's interview timetable, but failed for the fourth straight day to win back a single one of the converts to communism.

South Korean army officers blocked the slowdown tactics by fellow countrymen who refused to return home and talked with 40 prisoners before the 4:30 p.m. deadline. But their score remained zero with a total of 130 South Koreans interviewed. Another 198 remain to be called.

Will Meet Americans

The Allies probably will start meeting with the 22 reluctant Americans and one British captive in eight or nine days.

Defiant Korean prisoners Saturday demanded longer explanations and refused to leave interview tents when ROK officers wound up attempts to woo them home.

The explainers solved the attempted slowdown by simply walking out of the tents and moving on to talk with other prisoners awaiting interviews. Left alone, the prisoners quickly made up their minds and walked out the door leading back to Communist rule.

Meanwhile, negotiations to arrange a political conference were in recess while American Envoy Arthur Dean conferred in Seoul with South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Dean met 40 minutes with the aged Korean leader and said later the conference was "exceptionally pleasant." He declined to comment further.

Talks Resume Monday

The preliminary talks, deadlocked over the role Russia will play at the peace table, resume Monday.

Explanations to war prisoners also will start again Monday after a Sunday break.

An Allied repatriation officer said the explainers will call for only 30 prisoners Monday. That's the same number interviewed the first three days.

"We find that 30 prisoners makes for a smoother operation," he remarked. "With that number we are prepared for anything that may come up."

During Saturday's sessions one prisoner caused a brief flurry by refusing to leave the explanation booth after he had made his choice to remain with the Communists. Indian guards escorted the struggling Korean out the door to the pro-Communist camp.

Guards repeatedly cut short speeches by the prisoners on why they refuse to go back to South Korea.

Fire Hits Structure Owned by Cobey Corporation

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — A fire of undetermined origin early this morning gutted one of two Cobey Corp. plant buildings in Bucyrus, resulting in a loss unofficially estimated at some $150,000.

Firemen were called out about 3 a.m. when a passerby noticed flames and smoke inside the building. At 4:25 a.m. the main portion of the roof caved in and one of the three walls collapsed. Firemen were working at the still-smoldering ruins at 8:30 this morning.

Began in Paint Booth

Bucyrus Fire Chief Ralph Mead tentatively established the origin of the fire in a spray painting booth located near the center of the building but could determine no cause for the blaze.

A one-story brick building, the plant is located near the Pennsylvania Railroad depot near downtown Bucyrus and was formerly occupied by the Shunk Plow Works.

Heat of the flames routed some 10 persons from their residences located near the plant building.

The Guy Hunter family and all their furniture were evacuated from their home on Norton Way shortly after firemen arrived when heat from the flames scorched the paint on the house. The house is about 30 feet from the plant building.

On E. Mary St. the sisters of Holy Trinity School living in the nuns' residence were evacuated to a hotel when smoke from the burning factory filled the residence.

Sparks Burn Roof

Flying sparks burned a hole in the roof of the Russell Bahl residence on N. Lane St. but the blaze was extinguished before it could do further damage.

All Bucyrus city firemen were called out to fight the blaze and the

U.N. Assembly Split on Plans For Recessing

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Political Committee turned today to Korea, generally agreed not to debate the issue now but reportedly split on how and when to recall the Assembly should the current Korean peace conference negotiations break down.

There were reports that the Soviet block might launch a lonely campaign for an immediate debate but most delegates apparently felt it would be best to pass up discussion at this stage in the parley talks. The main fight in the 60-nation committee was over two procedural resolutions.

Both proposals called for a recess instead of an adjournment when the Assembly winds up its business next week but they conflicted sharply on the recall question.

A Brazilian proposal—backed by the United States and its 15 Korean war allies—called for recessing the Assembly indefinitely, subject to recall if and when a majority of the Assembly considers it necessary. The resolution was said to have the support of the 20 Latin American bloc nations.

An Indian proposal would recess until on or about Feb. 9 with the recall decision left up to the Assembly president—India's Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit.

McCarthy Eyes Results of Plea: 'Tell It to Ike'

Keeps Tab on Results, Disputing Figures Listed by White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) kept an eye today on White House tallying of returns from his "tell it to Eisenhower" plea for messages from the people as to how they stand on foreign policy.

But he seemed to have abandoned his earlier announced plan to send a message himself to President Eisenhower, attending the Big Three conference in Bermuda, if the McCarthy tally keeps running ahead of the White House count.

Charges Short Count

"I think the President himself should be informed," McCarthy had said last night, shortly after he charged—and the White House denied—that someone on Eisenhower's staff was making a short count through an "honest . . . but grievous mistake."

But later, after the White House reported receipt of more telegrams and a backlog of still others, McCarthy said:

"I'm happy to see the revised figures. We'll check our figures back and forth and I think they'll finally jibe."

McCarthy called for letters and telegrams to the President Thursday after repeating his contention that U. S. aid should be stopped to any free world nations which trade with Communist China. He said Americans who share this view should tell it to Eisenhower.

The President and Secretary of State Dulles have taken the position that attempted coercion of Allies would endanger free world unity in the face of the Soviet menace.

1,500 Received

Late yesterday, Asst. Presidential Press Secretary Murray Snyder said 1,500 telegrams had been received up to 4 p.m. (EST), as well as about 50 letters. He said he would announce today how many favored McCarthy and how many upheld Eisenhower and Dulles.

But McCarthy challenged these figures.

He said he had learned that 2,087 telegrams had been delivered by midnight the night before, and that many hundreds more were delivered during the day. He said he also had learned there was a mounting backlog of about 1,700 other messages at the Western Union office.

Snyder at first stuck to the 1,500 total, but later said it had risen to 2,030 by 8 p.m. (EST). He said Western Union told him it had a backlog of 1,800 more.

Will Keep Checking

Telegrams to the White House move on a special wire from Western Union instead of being delivered by messengers.

McCarthy said he would accept that total. He suggested delays somewhere along the line probably accounted for the discrepancy.

Ohio College Student Held In Bar Slaying

Mount Vernon Man Killed, Another Hurt In Shooting at Tavern

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — Manslaughter charges were filed here today against a young college student who police said admitted a tavern slaying last night.

Richard Weidner, 26, Mount Vernon machinist, was shot to death and George Prosser, a bartender, was wounded in the knee during the fight.

Police said Prosser was wounded while trying to break up the dispute.

Candido Marquez Jr., 20-year-old sophomore of Chicago, was arrested by a college policeman after he and a companion walked five miles back to their dormitory at Kenyon College at Gambier.

A statewide alarm had been placed for Marquez and Roger D. Swigert, 20, a junior from Rt. 4, Louisville, Ohio. Swigert was released later and no charge was filed against him immediately.

Police said Marquez told them the shooting occurred after Weidner asked him outside to fight.

Mount Vernon Police Chief Harold E. George said a bullet from a German automatic pistol passed through Weidner's heart and struck the bartender in the knee.

GEN. VANDENBERG ILL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, who will be 55 in January, is on the "seriously ill" list at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Three Mishaps Involve Train, Automobiles

Three automobile-train collisions occurred in Marion and the area last night. None resulted in serious injury but all three automobiles involved were demolished.

In an auto-train accident investigated by city police, Henry Harrison Jordan, 28, of near Marion was sent to City Hospital with a bump on his head after his car was struck by an Erie locomotive at the W. Center St. and Kenton Ave. railroad crossing.

The accident ocurred at 7:38 p.m. last night as Jordon was driving east on Kenton Ave. He drove in front of southbound train number 91 driven by Engineer G. D. Beirs. Harrison later told police he did not see the train coming. There are no crossing gates or watchman at the crossing, which is on the Erie's line to Dayton.

Police reported that the train

England, Iran Settle Dispute

13-Month Break Over Oil Rights Called Off

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Britain and Iran announced resumption of diplomatic relations today following a break of more than 13 months as a result of the dispute over Iranian nationalization of properties of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

First announcement of the move, forecast earlier by informed Iranian sources, was made by an Iranian government spokesman.

A communique issued shortly afterward in London, said with the exchanging of ambassadors Britain and Iran "will proceed at the earliest mutually agreed moment to negotiate a settlement of the oil dispute which has recently clouded relations."

The Iranian acceptance came despite strong internal opposition, particularly on the part of Ayatoullah Kashani, a powerful Moslem religious leader. British envoys had been ousted from the country in October, 1952, by former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Postoffice To Add 60 Extra Workers

The exact date on which the Marion postoffice will begin employing extra help for the Christmas rush depends on when heavy holiday mailing begins, Postmaster Homer D. Cole reported today.

He doesn't expect to take on any extra workers before Dec. 14. Extra mail carriers will probably go on the routes Dec. 15.

This year the postoffice will employ approximately 60 extra workers, increasing its staff by almost two-thirds. The exact number of additional employes depends on the size of the Christmas mail load.

Approximately 60 to 70 per cent of this year's extra workers will be experienced hands from previous rush periods. No more applications for Christmas work are being accepted by the postoffice.

Suspected Bid For Revolt in Cuba Thwarted

Ex-President Among 9 Arrested for Attempt To Export War Arms

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuba's former President Carlos Prio Socarras and his interior miniser were free under heavy bonds today on a charge of conspiring to export arms and implements of war from the United States without a license.

"The implication is quite clear that these munitions were to be used for a revolution in Cuba," said U. S. Dist. Atty. James L. Guilmartin.

Arrested in Miami

Prio, 50, and Segundo Curti, 43, his interior minister until Fulgencio Batista overthrew his regime in a bloodless coup on March 10, 1952, were taken in custody at Prio's home-in-exile here yesterday following their indictment in New York.

They were brought in by Deputy U. S. Marshal Jack Peeples and booked and fingerprinted at the Federal Building. Prio was released under $50,000 bond and Curti on $25,000 bond.

They were among nine persons named in the indictment. Names of the others were withheld pending their arrest.

Five Others Named

Five others were named in a separate complaint filed here before U. S. Commissioner Roger Edward Davis with conspiring to ship 30 M1 carbine rifles to Cuba.

Three of them were brought in by U. S. customs authorities who said they had worked on the case since April, 1952.

They were booked as Jesse A. Vickers, 56, Miami Springs, described by his attorney as "in the airplane business," Efren Rudolfo Pichardo, 33, Miami, and Marcus Diaz y Lanz, 26, a Cuban in this country on a visitor's permit.

Vickers' bond was set at $15,000 and the others at $5,000 each.

Davis set a preliminary hearing for them for Dec. 11.

Prio Denies Charge

After posting bond, the dapper Prio issued a statement in which he denied the charge and said he would fight it.

Guilmartin requested $100,000 bond for Prio and said the quantity of arms and ammunition involved in the charges was "considerable."

Prio, who returned to Miami earlier this week from Mexico City, said he would issue "a full and complete statement as soon as I am advised of the specific charges."

The arrests came on the heels of unconfirmed reports that a revolution had been scheduled in Cuba next Monday. This is Cuba's national day of mourning for dead patriots.

COLUMBUS YOUTH SLAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Lawrence Lewis Holland Jr., 21, was shot and killed by a night watchman on a parking lot today, Sgt. C. D. Lewis of the police homicide squad reported. George Henry Varner, 48, the night watchman, was being held for investigation.

Decision Due in Spring

Ohio Stays in Running For Atomic Power Plant

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — The general manager of the Atomic Energy Commission said yesterday the AEC expects to decide next spring where to build the first atomic power plant—and Ohio is still in the running.

Maj. Gen. Kenneth D. Nichols said site of the new plant—first big venture in peacetime use of atomic energy — will depend on "where we best can get the facilities we need."

Tour Pike Plant

Nichols and Richard W. Cook, director of the AEC's division of production, toured the Pike County atom plant yesterday with Ohio congressmen. They said they were pleased with progress of construction, and praised state and local authorities for building roads and enlarging schools in the plant area.

Regarding the atomic power plant, which would convert atomic energy into electrical energy, Nichols said it could be located "anyplace in the country." In announcing the project last month AEC Commissioner Thomas A. Murray mentioned sites at or near existing "gaseous diffusion" atom plants might be "good locations."

The gaseous diffusion plants are at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Paducah, Ky., and the one under construction in Pike County.

The gaseous diffusion plants separate uranium-235 from ordinary uranium. U-235 is an isotope of uranium that is used in the atom bomb. In the gaseous diffusion process, ordinary uranium is converted into a gaseous compound, which is diffused through porous barriers because of the different rates of diffusion of various isotopes, U-235 can be separated.

The AEC officials also inspected progress on the electric power plant near Gallipolis, one of two plants which will provide 1,800,000 kilowatts to operate the Pike Count atom plant.

13,000 Working

Kenneth Dunbar, the AEC's Portsmouth area manager, said about 13,000 men are working on the Pike County plant now, but the peak employment will come about a year from now. In the fall or early winter of 1954, he said, about 26,000 construction workers and 4,000 production workers will be employed.

Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, veteran Ironton Republican, invited Nichols and Cook to the plant tour.

Both Jenkins and Rep. James G. Polk, Ohio Democrat, said they believe Congress will continue to suport the AEC's program.

There Is A Fountain Filled With Blood

A troubled poet prays for his soul

William Cowper suffered all of his 69 years. Due to a weak constitution, he suffered physically. Due to uncontrollable melancholia, he suffered mentally. He believed that God had doomed his soul beyond redemption. This belief drove him to attempts at suicide and he was committed to insane asylums four times. He had studied law but could not plead cases because of stage fright, and his speech was impaired by lisping and stammering. Yet, when he had control of his faculties, William Cowper produced poetry that placed him among the foremost of England's literary giants.

The world can thank, among others, the Reverend John Newton . . . the one-time sailor and slave trader . . . for bringing out the best in Cowper. While Curate at the town of Olney, Newton gave the poet a home and put him to work. He built him a house in a garden back of his residence where the strange little man played with rabbits and talked with birds. He encouraged and collaborated with him in writing hymns for weekly prayer meetings. Thus came into being the famous collection of "Olney Hymns" . . . among which is found some of the finest work in English literature.

During the early part of the last century Composer Lowell Mason . . . who spent his youth as a bank clerk in Savannah . . . cast about for poems to set to music for his Boston choirs. Among his selection was William Cowper's "There is a Fountain Filled With Blood." The little poet had died, still praying for his soul in 1800. But he had written hymns that were to carry his name through the ages . . . among them being—

There is a fountain filled with blood,
Drawn from Immanuel's veins,
And sinners plunged beneath that flood
Lose all their guilty stains.

The dying thief rejoiced to see
That fountain in his day;
And there may I, tho' vile as he,
Wash all my sins away.

E'er since by faith I saw the stream
Thy flowing wounds supply,
Redeeming love has been my theme
And shall be till I die.

Then in a nobler, sweeter song
I'll sing Thy pow'r to save,
When this poor, lisping, stammering tongue
Lies silent in the grave.

God's Power, Man's Power

A Sermonette

By REV. CARL N. LAUER
Pastor of First Church of the Brethren

"Jesus answered, Thou couldest have no power at all against Me, except it were given thee from above."

Does God give power to evil men and women? Does God permit evil to work in our lives? Does God permit sin, sorrow and suffering in our lives? Should we say that because of our thoughts, words and deeds in our lives, we are getting just what we deserve, or should we accuse God of not treating us right?

God our Heavenly Father sent His only begotten Son, Jesus Christ, from heaven, down to this earth to show us by precept and example the right way to live; and by shedding His precious blood on the Cross of Calvary; He paid the price of our redemption that we might see and realize in a measure at least, the great Love of God our Heavenly Father, that we might know how much He really loves and cares for us, and that through faith in Jesus as our Saviour and Redeemer, we might find the way, the truth, and the life, the way of joy and peace in this world, and in the world to come.

BUT WE LEARN that God gave man the power of choice, so that man has the power to choose the way of evil, or the way of God.

And so man in refusing to seek and obey God and refusing to listen to His voice, has by his own choice, and by his own acts, brought sin, sorrow, and suffering upon himself. We have failed to choose to love God, and to love one another.

Yes Pilate, through the power of choice, was permitted to give the word that caused Jesus to be crucified; and yet Jesus said to Pilate, "Thou couldest have no power against Me, except it were given thee from above."

Is it by man's skill alone, that the ground brings forth its fruit? Is it by man's device that the air sustains his life? Is it through man's provisions that the light shines and the rain falls? Is it by man's wisdom that the sun rises and sets every day? Why should man gloat of his power? To One alone, to God, all power belongs.

TODAY WE BEHOLD great powers in the hands of evil men: they seem to be very secure, yet they too are merely men. In due time as God sees fit, their power will cease. They are using their power against God. And yet the words of Jesus, "Thou couldest have no power against me except it were given from above" applies to them also.

History records the fact that many wicked nations and sinful men, who exercised great power in their day, in due time, were brought low through God's righteous and eternal laws of justice.

So let us not despair, for God's righteous power will prevail over the wicked men and nations of today.

—:—

BUT WE, WHO complain of power in wicked hands, are our hands clean? Let us remember, Jesus is standing before each one of us every day. We have the power to say yes, or no, to God each day. We have the power to release Jesus so that He may live in the hearts and lives of others.

But we also have power to injure Him, power to crucify Him afresh. How are we using that power?

Most of all the misery and suffering in this world, has grown out of man refusing to do the will of God.

Here are some reasons for doing the will of God in our lives: It is wiser to submit to one wiser than ourselves. It is safe to place ourselves in the hands of eternal love. When God's will is universally and willingly obeyed all sin will be done away, all war will cease, all suffering will cease.

The time will come when. "The kingdoms of this world will become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ; and He shall reign for ever and ever." Revelations 11:15.

Politician Mother Quits In Favor of Daughter

ESPERANCE, N.Y. (UP) — Voters narrowly missed the chance of having to choose between a mother and her daughter for the office of town clerk.

Mrs. Alice Markle, town clerk for the past eight years, declined the Democratic nomination for re-election because her daughter, Mrs. Esther Brown, was running for the office on the Republican ticket.

Mrs. Markle said she felt competition between mother and daughter is not justified in politics, "So, I stepped aside."

John Clunies-Ross, a Scot, became king of the Cocos Islands in 1827, five generations of his line ruled there and another John Clunies-Ross is now British governor of the islands.

The Law . . .
protects it for you!

In the eyes of the law, your ownership of a family plot is inviolable. Thus, your family plot cannot be taxed. It is lien-proof and judgment-proof. It cannot be seized for debt. From the moment you purchase this protection, it is yours for all time and not even financial reverses may ever deprive you of it.

So sacredly personal, so utterly secure is your ownership, that the law itself GUARANTEES the lifetime peace of mind which comes with the deed to your family plot. And that is something you can begin enjoying now!

Bexley Hall Choir To Sing Sunday in Episcopal Church

The Bexley Hall Choir, students in the Episcopal theological seminary at Kenyon College at Gambier, will be guest music group at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Marion Sunday. The service will begin at 10:45 a.m. and will be a song Eucharist with the Rev. Frederick W. Leech, rector, being the celebrant.

The choir is composed of 25 men under the direction of Dr. Paul Schwartz, professor of church music at Bexley Hall. Joseph M. Eldridge, a seminarian from the Diocese of Tennessee, will be the organist.

The settings to be sung are Gregorian plainsong, among some of the most ancient styles of music in the church until the ninth century when the "polyphonic" type, most commonly used today, began to make its appearance.

The purpose for the Bexley Hall Choir, which will be on tour this year visiting various churches, is to acquaint people with the work being done at Bexley in the way of training men for the ministry, and demonstrating the important place music has in the church service.

As a result of the parish offerings received last year while the choir was on tour, Bexley Hall was able to provide a scholarship for Herbert L. Moore of the Missionary District of Panama Canal Zone to study at Bexley this year.

The guest choir will sing the Service of Holy Communion, and in keeping with Advent, hymns will stress the Nativity season. "Glory and Worship Are Before Him," Purcell, will be the anthem. A plain-song form will be usel during communion. Paul Schwartz, chairman of the music department of Kenyon, is the choir director.

After the service, the young men will join with the St. Paul's Choir for dinner in the Parish House.

IS YOUR FARM a Business OR an Estate?
MAYBE you've never thought that there might be this distinction. But it's there. And it could mean a lot to your family.
If your farm is a business it is most valuable as a "going business." If it's an estate it is most valuable if it's "free and clear." The explanation of these two conditions is not hard to grasp. Nor does it require a great deal of time. If you are interested, we would like to tell you what this difference might mean to you and your family.

Elizabeth Bentley Says:

Soviet Spies in U. S. Feared, Hated FBI

By ELIZABETH BENTLEY

NEW YORK YORK — The influence which Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Harry Dexter White was able to exert on Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau was a tremendous assist to the American spies working for the Soviet espionage network in Washington.

Morgenthau, of course, didn't fall in with the Communists plots, but the result of his steady acceptance of White's suggestions was that much secret information ordinarily not be available to us, fell easily into the hands of the Soviet agents.

Last of a Series

For example, it was White, a member of the Silvermaster spy ring, who proposed to Morgenthau that the Treasury exchange secret information with other strategic government agencies. When this plan ultimately was in full operation, the Treasury was trading information with at least seven or eight agencies. All this vital data funneled through White and he, in turn, passed it on to the spy ring.

INCLUDED AMONG the material which was turned over to me from White for delivery to the Soviet secret police were classified reports of the FBI and secret information from the Navy.

Indoctrinated in Communist dogma and their souls warped by its poison, the American agents had a peculiar psychology about the FBI. It had been drummed into them over and over that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was a kind of brutal Cossack secret police organization until they seemed to believe this implicitly.

The American spies, I found, hated the FBI with a fury that seemed to inspire them to willingly take great risks. Success in outwitting the FBI was a sort of exhilarating stimulant. I recall that Silvermaster used to flaunt his disdain for the FBI with such remarks as, "Do you think the FBI is listening in"—accompanied by laughter. Or else he would say with relish, "Well, if they tailed me today they didn't get anywhere."

ONE OF THE VERY few spies who actually severed all connection with the espionage network before the crackdown was Robert Miller, who worked in the office of the coordinator of inter-American affairs. Nervous and fearful, he would only pass on information orally and refused to steal any documents for the ring. Eventually, in the last six months I knew him, he refused to give me any information at all. But his case was a rarity.

As for me, I had decided by the summer of 1945 that I could no longer serve my Soviet masters. Realization had finally come to me that instead of building a new world, insuring the dignity of man and the triumph of justice and democracy, we in the Communist movement had been used and corrupted. The real purpose of the Communist scheme for world domination had become frighteningly clear to me at last.

Now the problem was how the break could be made and how to make amends. I had the feeling that by this time the Soviet secret police had lost their complete confidence in me and were beginning to worry about my reliability.

I WENT THROUGH a long agony of doubt and indecision, and then one day, like a cleansing revelation, I knew I must tell the full story to the FBI.

I was afraid that the Soviet agents were watching me and would put me out of the way at once if they suspected my intention. I realized it would be too much of a risk to go to the FBI offices in Washington or New York, where the chances of my being seen by someone in the spy network were great.

So, in August 1945, I traveled to New Haven, Conn., and there I made my first voluntary contact with the FBI. A bureau man listened noncommittally to a brief outline of what I had to tell, thanked me for coming and said I would be told shortly what to do next.

While the FBI did its own checking, the days dragged by in a kind of nightmare as I waited for word. Meanwhile, as far as the Soviet secret police were concerned—I hoped—I was still a member of the apparatus. It was a wearing, nerve-wracking role. Grimly, I fought to keep myself under control.

FINALLY, the word from the FBI came. I was to go to the U. S. Court House at Foley Square and there an FBI agent would meet me. I recall my fright and despair as I walked down the long, endless corridors of the building accompanied by the agent. With every step, I felt I was walking deeper into a dungeon from which I would never emerge. Not knowing what to expect, I was amazed at the courtesy and kindness of the FBI men, so startling a contrast from the harshness and arrogance of the Russian secret police agents. I recited in detail the history of my years in the Communist movement and in the spy underground and was advised to continue my contacts under FBI supervision.

The unmasking of the gigantic conspiracy got under way. I supplied the FBI with the gaps in the vast amount of information the bureau itself had compiled.

THEN, IN JUNE 1947, the grand jury probing Communist activities and espionage began their deliberations and I spent many months testifying before that group. After a while, I lost contact completely with the espionage apparatus and the Soviet agents, apparently aware of what I was doing, made no effort to get in touch with me.

The following year, I received a subpoena from a congressional investigating body and I repeated my story to it. Two armed guards were assigned to me around the clock. Strangely enough, I had by this time lost all fear of Communist reprisal. Things were happening too fast. Fortunately, I had no time to worry about my personal safety.

I had gotten a job in a Wall Street import firm just before receiving the subpoena from the House Un-American Activities Committee but I had to give up the job when long days of testimony kept me away from my work.

IN SEPTEMBER 1948, I began lecturing to various groups across the country. I was amazed at how little Americans generally knew about the dangers of the American Communist movement and the menace of the Soviet espionage system. I felt that I had embarked on a crusade of truth and enlightenment.

In 1949 and 1950, I taught political science at Mundelein College in Chicago. Some time after that, I came to the College of the Sacred Heart in the Bayou country of Louisiana, where I am now as I write these words.

Here, I teach American government and romance languages. Here I have finally found peace and congentment as the days pass quietly and without incident.

What more can I say now I have been asked what should be the attitude of the American people toward the Communist who recants, how I feel about those whom I have named to the FBI and the investigating committees.

Let me say first that I have pity, not hate, in my heart for those former colleagues of mine who still cling to the monstrous doctrine that has enslaved them.

Then, let it be remembered that to deny that a former Communist can see the light and seek to restore himself to the society of decent men, is to impugn our entire concept of reform and rehabilitation. The FBI is completely capable of evaluating the sincerity of an ex-Communist and its verdict can be relied upon.

For myself, I hope that I need no longer retell my story to investigating committees. America has at last been alerted. This alert must be sustained, the dangers of Communist espionage cannot be minimized and never, at least in the foreseeable future, must we let down our guard.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Find Joy in Giving

A college student had occasion to visit his family physician during the Christmas vacation. He needed treatment for a minor ailment and arranged to make daily visits during the days before Christmas.

DR. PEALE

During the course of the treatments, the doctor noticed that the boy was depressed and seemed to become even more so as the holiday drew closer. Finally, he asked, "Aren't you enjoying your vacation"

"No," answered the boy. "I hate Christmas!"

The doctor was startled and began to question the boy. He head a story that shocked him. This youngster's parents had, from early childhood, used the delights and joys of Christmas as a threat to insure good behavior the rest of the year.

IF THE BOY did something wrong, he was told that Santa Claus wouldn't bring him anything on Christmas. Punishment often consisted in the withholding of some special holiday treat. Thus, Christmas became a symbol of retribution for all the year's offenses.

So the boy grew up hating and dreading the holiday season. For him, it was a time of judgment, not a season of joy. It lost all its happiness for him. Dr. Lester L. Coleman, the New York surgeon from whom this story comes, points to the boy who hated Christmas as an example of how the psychology of fear can destroy our joy in the things we should normally look forward to. A great secret of overcoming fear and hate and all unhappy attitudes is to experience the joy of self forgetfulness through giving.

This is the season when all of us are thinking about giving. The streets are lighted up to illuminate shop windows full of wonderful things. The newspapers are crowded with advertisements of attractive gifts from all over the world. Everywhere we turn, we are urged to buy and to give.

—:—

CHRISTMAS giving is a wonderful experience. But the gift of Christmas should not be the gift of duty or, even worse, of punishment and retribution. It should be the joyous gift of love—given to honor the birth of Him whose love was perfect. So, to find real joy in giving, may I offer a few simple suggestions.

Make your selection of gifts carefully; the smallest gift with something of yourself in it is more important than an expensive impersonal gift.

If possible, deliver it in person; if not, send your gift with a prayer that God's blessing go with it. Remember, "The gift without the giver is bare."

Give not only to those who expect it from you; but also give to those who expect nothing of you.

Give with no thought of any returns you may get, but for the pleasure it will give to others.

—:—

DON'T FORGET people of other races and creeds in your giving, for such giving can promote brotherhood and understanding in the name of Him who said, "Love one another."

Also, give to someone who is in great need remembering that He said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these . . . ye have done it to me."

And, most important of all, remember that Christmas, which celebrates the coming of a Child, is particularly a children's day. Help them to remember it with joy and to look forward to its coming with eager anticipation. Don't let your child grow up hating Christmas.

Let your gifts speak the language of love, your love. Give love with your gift and you will indeed find joy in giving.

Mansfielder Hospitalized After Galion Altercation

GALION — Drunk and disorderly charges were brought against two Mansfield men, engaged in an altercation here, Friday morning, after the case was completely investigated by Captain George Cook of the detective division of the Galion Police Department.

In the brawl, Leo J. Erickson, 50, of Mansfield, was injured and taken to Galion City Hospital, and Harry E. Fulmer, 37, also of Mansfield, was placed under arrest when picked up by Crestline police in a bar there after he was seen leaving the scene of the fight in Galion.

Erickson was treated at the hospital for a bruised jaw, possible shoulder dislocation and laceration of the right ankle.

Italians, Slavs May Be Nearer Trieste Solution

ROME (AP)—Italy and Yugoslavia today agreed to take immediate steps to "normalize" conditions along their frontier.

Both nations had reinforced border troops during recent tension over the disputed Trieste free territory.

The agreement was announced by the Italian foreign ministry following a meeting of Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella with Yugoslavia's minister to Rome, Pavle Gregorik.

It was the first positive step taken by the two countries toward solution of the thorny Trieste issues.

The communique said Pella and the Yugoslav minister had considered possibilities of normalizing the Italian-Yugoslav frontier.

During their conference both governments agreed it was opportune to proceed immediately upon simultaneous action which will be completed "within a short period."

Presumably this would involve withdrawal of some troops from the frontier. Both countries have separately suggested this.

Today's meeting was requested by the Yugoslav minister.

Premier Pella said shipment of strategic materials to Yugoslavia—blocked since tension between the two countries mounted—would again be permitted.

PROPHECY FULFILLED

NEW LODON, Conn. (UP) — Town Court Judge Louis C. Wool warned Theodore E. Nelson five years ago that unless he mended his ways he would land in state prison some day. Nelson, then 19, appeared before the judge on a burglary charge. The judge was lenient and let him go. Now Nelson is in state prison serving an 18-month to three-year sentence on charges of carrying a knife and breaking and entering.

Delegate Doakes at Bermuda

As every American knows, foreign policy is made by all the people in a representative democracy, the same as domestic policy.

If it is hard to understand how this process works, the three-nation meeting in Bermuda is a good illustration.

The foreign policy of the United States in the Bermuda meeting will be aimed at finding ways and means of getting along better with two important neighbors in international affairs.

Joe Doakes will be a delegate in spirit.

The British and French have done things which have annoyed the people of the United States. It is a good guess they will continue to cause annoyance since both are strongly individualistic in their national characteristics.

The American people do not love these allies for their faults, which are numerous. Nor do the American people make any special point of overlooking faults and concentrating on virtues; that is not the outspoken American way of doing things.

This, in turn, is one of the things about Americans which gall their international neighbors. But the neighbors, too, make a point of trying to get along with the United States as amicably as possible.

This desire to get along with one another is the common ground for the western alliance. It is the vital point of difference between the western alliance, or the Allies, and the eastern alliance, sometimes called the Communist bloc.

The nations dominated by the Soviet Union's military strength and its skill in conducting international conspiracies do not aim to get along with one another. They are not held together by desire to be as friendly as their faults permit but by coercion and fear.

There isn't one of them which wouldn't gladly break away from the Kremlin's domination if it could be done safely. Americans would never be comfortable with that kind of a foreign policy. Their kind is on display in Bermuda, where Joe Doakes has a hand in deciding foreign policy.

Military Evolution

Adm. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has disposed of a defense idea which had been banging about on the loose the last few years.

There will be no sudden new departures in national defense, he told the American Ordnance Association this week. The Joint Chiefs are keeping track of everything being done and believe the best hope of security lies in evolution.

The space-ship era hasn't arrived yet.

In other words, the idea that national defense could be safely left to the Air Force from now on, with no Army and no Navy worth mentioning, is getting no credence in the highest military circles.

But on the other hand neither are two ideas which formerly banged about on theloose—that the whole job could be left safely to the Army, or that the job could be turned over to the Navy.

There always is danger that funds will be frittered away on obsolete types of defense, such as cavalry when everybody has switched to trucks. But just when everybody has given up horses, along comes a war in Korea which makes old-timers wish the master planners had kept a few horses on hand for muddy roads.

Adm. Radford's top - planning organization is probably right about evolution. The Air Force won't like to share its widened area of responsibility with the Army and the Navy but as long as wars are fought catch-as-catch-can they'll be useful to have around.

In a pinch, they might get the hang of death rays and atomic disintegrators too.

No Thief in Your Pocket

George M. Humphrey, secretary of the treasury, told the Investment Bankers Association this week there had been a change of only one-half of one per cent in the purchasing power of the dollar in the last year.

This is the most important announcement that could be made by any federal official. Yet in the hurly-burly of national politics, it receives scarcely any attention. This is what it signifies:

The purchasing power of the dollar is measured by an index based on some period in the past when the dollar's purchasing power was higher than it is at present. This period is either 1935 to 1939, or 1947 to 1949.

Secretary Humphrey, using the 1935-1939 period, pointed out that the dollar had stood at 100.6 in 1939 and finally has been stablized, at least temporarily, at close to 52. It has stayed within a one-point range for two years.

Its purchasing power had been steadily stolen away from it by wartime inflation and postwar inflation. Some years almost 10 per cent of its value was wiped out by rising costs. Some of the worst effects of inflation were felt after the end of World War II. In effect, almost half the value of all savings was wiped out.

By 1948, the worst of the damage had been done; the dollar then had dropped below 60. It stood at 52.4 on an average during all of 1952. Early this year it climbed to 53, then dropped back.

The inflationary thief finally has been routed.

Truce Violations

Communists Entrenching Selves in Korea

While the bigwigs gather in Bermuda, more than 250 MIG's of the Russian jet-fighter type are violating the armistice agreement in Korea.

This fact has been transmitted to the United Nations command from reliable sources behind the Communist lines.

Responsible officers of the U. S. Army in Korea are much concerned about the enemy's build-up of air strength.

It means that, any moment the Communists care to launch an attack, they can do so without running the risk of immediate interception.

-:-

THE DISTANCES from the many new airfields that have been built to the American encampments south of the 38th parallel are so short that it would take only a matter of minutes for the Communist MIG's to reach the American and South Korean lines.

Prior to the signing of the Korean armistice not a single MIG was based in North Korea.

They operated during the entire course of the Korean War from bases in Manchuria. Even if the Reds had desired to base their planes in North Korea, the bases would have been destroyed by American bombers.

Now six airfields have been built in the northwestern sector and MIG's, with a speed of 630 miles per hour, could now harass the United Nations lines.

-:-

THEY ARE already causing a reign of terror in the South Korean population.

The new airfield which is farthest from Seoul, the capital of the South Korean government, is only 195 miles, which means a matter of ten or fifteen minutes to reach American troops.

The other airfields that have been constructed since the armistice are even closer. Some are only 55 and 60 miles away, so that it is possible for a sudden attack to be launched in a few minutes and catch the Republic of Korea's Army unawares.

It has been argued that the U. S. bombers based in Okinawa and Japan would instantly retaliate but, unless the MIG's could be pursued to their bases north of the Yalu—to which they certainly would fly after the first attacks—the American bombers would not be able to do any more than pound away at the new bases.

PRESUMABLY there would be many a dogfight by rival fighter planes before air supremacy could be established again over the whole of North Korea, especially if the launching of an attack should take place in a season of bad flying weather.

The American government has been advised of what is happening in North Korea and apparently is regarding it as a "calculated risk."

Military men don't like the fact that military power beyond that which the armistice was supposed to permit is being built up by the enemy in Korea because if hostilities are resumed, American troops would be at a disadvantage. This certainly was never intended under the armistice terms.

The present truce agreement in Korea isn't, however, a pact in which the U. N. is the victor, but one in which the enemy can disregard armistice terms at will and feel quite sure nothing will be done about it.

THE ALLIED governments which have had forces in Korea signed an agreement threatening to extend the zone of hostilities if an attack was made by the Communists on U. N. forces during the armistice.

With the attitude taken by the British government—that it will decide for itself, after perhaps lengthy parliamentary debate, whether an "attack" should be repulsed—it is unlikely that the U. N. commander in chief will be able to do any more than he did before the armistice.

This means a fight against odds solely within the confines of Korean territory.

Meanwhile, there is no "peace conference" in sight, and the Communists of China and Soviet Russia are entrenching themselves militarily for all time in Korea.

The present line near the 38th Parallel is the new frontier for the Red Chinese-Soviet alliance.

Dear Nephew: I bought your Christmas present today. In deciding what to get you I used a formula I have used before, not always with success.

I found what I thought I would like if I were in your shoes and bought it for you. Once I bought your aunt a new hat under this formula when I went to a state convention. She never wore it.

All my fishing tackle was bought under the same formula. I looked at the lures and rigs and figured what I'd like if I were a fish. When the fish bite, I think I'm vindicated. When they don't, I think i'm wrong.

I cannot be sure you will like your present. I can only suggest that you try to see it through my eyes, making allowances for my bifocals, which are not what they used to be and certainly not what the need to be.

The reason I mention this is to make sure you do not fiddle around too long to do justice by me this Christmas. Not that you ever have failed to come through handsomely in other years but there is always a first time. Forewarned is forearmed as far as fair exchange and no robbery is concerned. As between you and me, in other words, it isn't the principle of the thing; it's the money.

Kidding aside, I think you will like the shocking pink parachute with nylon fittings and snow-white harness I bought for you today. I shopped around a long time before I could find this particular color. In fact, I shopped a long time before I could find any parachutes.

If you will give me an alpine stock and other mountain - climbing accessories, it will be a standoff. I get into this unreasonable mood by looking at advertisements for Christmas stuff to give your loved ones. There must be designers who do nothing else but think up stuff for Christmas.

You get me an umbrella that has built - in chimes which play "Singin' in The Rain" and I will get you a miniature grand piano that opens up to reveal a Tiny Tim tool shop so a man can build things in his living room.

Your aunt is even more of a problem than you are because she keeps lookin; at ads, then looking at me and threatening to hex me if I am tempted to buy any of the things she has been reading about. The only thing I have heard her say she really wants costs so much that if I had that kind of money I'd buy something for myself, like the toy tractor I saw day before yesterday at Mertz's hardware store.

It was the cutest thing since Shirley Temple. By the way, is Shirley a grandmother yet? Seems to me every time I turn around any more someone I still feel protective about has become a grandmother.

I enjoyed your description of catching the lambs you sent to market. I saw in the paper the other day that President Eisenhower thinks he would like to raise turkeys for fun. I guess I should tell him what he's getting into.

We raised turkeys one year in a fit of feeble - mindedness. The only thing they are good for is eating. Aside from that they are the most patience - trying things on earth. Our President, if he has any vitality left when the politicians get through with him, should conserve it by raising goldfish. Turkeys would be as hard to handle as the politicians.

Your aunt says hello and not to pay any attention to me because I always get silly in December and do not come to my senses until Groundhog Day. Regards to everybody at your house.

Weighing the Evidence

Political Smear Aimed at Businessmen

By Raymond Moley

Aside from Communism, which is sure to be an issue of great importance in 1954, there will be injected into next year's campaigns by Truman and other leaders of the left side of the Democratic party the argument that businessmen are a bad influence in government.

Indeed, we hear the premonitory warning of that in the oratory of Senators Humphrey and Morse, and in the speeches of labor bosses.

I do not predict that there will be a reversal of the 1952 trend in 1954 or in 1956, but if it comes, the chorus will arise in pronouncing final judgment on the failure of the businessman in politics.

-:-

WE CAN EASILY remember the dour benedictions over the Hoover administration. "After all," they said, "he is a fine man, but an engineer has no business in public office." So the "practical" people took over; the businessman was consigned to the political doghouse; and the nation went merrily on the road to a $275 billion debt.

If things go wrong, I already smell the identity of the goat. It will be the businessman, and he will be consigned by Republican and Democratic politicians to a more dismal exile than he occupied before.

His spirit, bent before, will be broken this time. He will give over his political affairs to his lawyers, his checkbook to the political bosses, and his voice to his public relations counselors.

-:-

HE WILL RETIRE to the counting-house and the workshop, and the next thing he knows he and all the rest of us will be working for the government.

Inthe current "Harvard Business Review," Robert F. Bradford, who served a term as governor of Massachusetts before the Truman sweep of 1948, comes to grips with the problem of the businessman in politics.

He warns business executives that willy - nilly a web of political relationships is being woven about him and that he had better find a way to live within it or it will live without him.

Quite helpfully Bradford draws from his own experience a number of wholesome lessons for the businessman who wishes to instruct himself.

-:-

I AM NOT sure, however, that any series of words woven into lessons can teach the businessman what he needs to know to become effective in protecting his interests in the political arena.

Politics is an art taught only by practice Aristotle said that twenty centuries ago. It is just as true today.

There are two courses open to the businessman with courage and the determination to become effective in politics.

The first is to enter party affairs, openly, actively, and personally. The idea prevails that this will bring upon himself and his company seriously dangerous political repaisals. That sort of thing has been altogether too generally believed.

The fact is that politicians are less likely to attack the fellow who is out there slugging than the timid soul who invites extortions by his very detachment.

ANOTHER WAY is to organize the leaders of many small companies into a sort of political auxiliary force. Such a group need not take a name or get specific publicity for itself.

The group can create a working alliance with the party organization, can give it some funds, and can recognize its candidates. It should operate independently, get out the vote — the right vote — and plan and finance publicity for its favored candidates.

This suggestion is not a mere theory. I have seen it work in at least two great cities. In both instances its results have been substantial and, what is more important, continuing.

The businessman contemplating politics "has nothing to fear but fear."

An Unfavorable Sample

By MARK DANA

There isn't enough real news coming out of Panmunjom, Korea, these days to make a decent filler at the end of a newspaper column, yet crack wire service correspondents over there, day after day, patiently cable over every crumb of every indication of every seeming trend in the months-long stalemate.

In a way, this long palavering about where and how and under what conditions a truce conference will be held is as wearing as the former shooting war, and certainly is causing more anxiety. If the Chinese Commnunists really wanted peace they would have so demonstrated long ago—that is, unless they are under orders from Moscow to drag things out.

There has been one violation after another of the Reds' early-professed good intentions for peace—one violation after another of integrity, good taste, fairness and promises. The Reds keep on abusing prisoners of war, insulting the U. N. negotiators, and apparently trying to stir up trouble by forcing the Allies to make some overt act in reprisal. What patience and fortitude the U. N. delegates must maintain!

The Communist ideology is basically evangelical. Every true believer in theory tries to win others, for it is a mass faith rather than an individual credo. Also, the Communists contend there is much logic in their beliefs.

Yet the Communists in Asia, like those in Europe, seem to be doing all they can to convince nonadherents that communism is ugly, mean, petty, nasty, minus honor or any real sense of brotherhood. They are succeeding rather well.

Where the Communist textbook stresses fraternal cooperation, the zealots speaking and acting to date have been just the opposite, and their logic is out of this world—stratospherically thin.

White House Table Service

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON

Pieces that make up the White House's gold dinner service carry the dates of their purchase, not serial numbers, as some one observed at a recent formal dinner. Some of the forks go back to the late '80s.

The handsome gilded bronze centerpiece used at every state dinner was sold to the government by President Monroe, who purchased it with other fine table pieces, linen, crystal and furnishings during his years abroad as a U. S. minister.

The centerpiece consists of a mirror plateau, 13½ feet long and two feet wide, with matching elaborate candelabra and fruit baskets. Designed by Paris artisans, it features figures of Bacchus and Bacchante, with 16 small figures around the mirror holding wreaths. Either 2 candles or 32 small vases of flowers may be placed in the wreaths.

Once after a White House reception during the Wilson Administration, when more than 400 pieces of silver were reported to have been lost, Mrs. Wilson began using the spoons for such functions. She bought them herself at a downtown hardware store. A White House usher told me that at a reception several years ago, he was a bit suspicious of one of the gentlemen guests whom he saw edging up to a flock of silver laid out on the buffet table in the state dining

"I just jostled up against him later in the throng," he told me, "the silver jangled in his pocket, and we got it back."

Mrs. Heinze Krekeier, pretty blonde wife of the German ambassador, missed her first White House reception because of one of Washington's strict protocol rulings. It happened that her husband was in Canada. When a chief of mission leaves the country to which he is accredited, the next person in rank at the embassy becomes the charge d'affaires or acting head of mission. Thus Dr. George Federer and Mrs. Federer were to be received first by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, and Mrs. Krekeler would follow. According to protocol, this would not be correct. Mrs. Krekeler did the correct thing. She stayed home. The Feberers went to the party.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

'Life With Feather'

Is America stocking too many feathers? Is the feather trend in our country getting out of bounds? A congressman's charges that Uncle Sam is buying and storing mountains of feathers at a cost of millions of dollars have stirred up another Washington row.

"We are cornering the world feather market," says the congressman. "We are feathering the biggest bed on earth, buying so many that we lack storage space."

The General Services Bureau says feathers have become a critical item and that it needs them for high altitude work by airmen. If this is so, okay with us all. But it is feared our feather goal is being overestimated and that unless there are some feather controls in government the trend of the people toward feathery existences (pretty marked during the past two decades) may be too greatly encouraged, making for a softer civilization.

Comes an end of war and what do we do with the feathers? Government feather distribution to the citizenry could follow. There was a time whan an American didn't expect feathers up to the time he had worked hard, most of his life, saved some dough, kept books carefully and attained a position of reasonable security.

But this fellow has gone with the wind, the high - wheeled bike, the hardwood bench and the folding cot. There is little trace left of the old-fashioned American who slept for years on a hard mattress, never went in much for feathers and seldom saw any except at the Buffalo Bill circus or poultry show.

Feathers didn't figure in the economy and under no circumstances hampered budget balancers.

This feather situation can become disturbing. In an era of good money, short hours, more holidays and longer vacations, a feather glut could mean greater federal distrubition of ease and comfort, with deep dissatisfaction filling the heart of any man whose chair cushion lacked enough feathers or who had to sleep on mattresses with no peach fuzz inside.

Workers, employers and mediators might be unable to function happily if the upholstery wasn't extra soft during the conferences. We can imagine an NLRB conference busting up through unsatisfactory feather conditions.

Overdo this feather trend and you will get thicker upholstery in autos, day coaches and buses. There could even come a demand that feathers be put into trouser seats.

Consider the American of 1975 — he may boast that he began life on foam rubber and worked up to peacock plumes, eiderdown and hummingbird wings.

Guy Lombardo will stage the water show at Jones Beach, N.Y., next summer, Mike Todd being too busy piling up riches in 3-D. Probably as a boy taking lessons Guy often felt like throwing his fiddle into the ocean, and now it will be easy. . . We suppose he will substitute speedboats for gondolas.

The British House of Lords voted to permit commercials on TV. They evidently decided they had enough breweries for the task.

The late Eugene O'Neil is generally believed to have found his background for sea stories largely through a few voyages on tramp steamers, but people forget that he spent formative years in New London, Conn., which is rich in sailing traditions and where, in his boyhood, the harbor was a rich source of seafaring experiences.

SANTA and the FLYING PUP

By LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

AP Newsfeatures

Henrietta's father lets her keep Willie, the little dog she found, because Christmas is near and Henrietta is happy with the pup. But Willie eats so much, and causes so much damage in the house, Henrietta's father decides the family can't afford to keep him. He takes him out of the house while Henrietta sleeps.

"He's All I Ever Had!" She Screamed.

CHAPTER THREE

When Henrietta woke the next morning and the first thing she did was reach out her hand for Willie.

"Willie! Willie! Here, Willie!"

But Willie did not come. Henrietta ran into the kitchen where the grandmama was slicing stale bread for breakfast.

"Where's Willie, grandmama?"

Grandmama said nothing. Henrietta ran to the grandpapa who was trying to start a fire to warm the kitchen. "Where's Willie?"

Have you seen Willie?"

Grandpapa said nothing.

—:—

HENRIETTA'S heart began to thump wildly. Her voice trembled. "Mother, where is Willie?" The mother said, "Get dressed, dear. Breakfast is ready for you."

Henrietta was filled with fear "I want my dog!"

The father came into the kitchen. He looked as though he had not slept that night.

"Come here, Henrietta," he said tiredly. He drew the little girl to his lap. "I had to give the dog away, child. He was eating all we had and chewing up our clothing and—"

Henrietta tore herself away from the father's grasp. Tears ran down her cheeks.

"He's all I ever had!" she screamed. "I never have good clothes or toys or any kind of Christmas or anything. All I ever had was Willie and if there's no room for Willie in this house then there's no room for me either."

—:—

WITH AN AWFUL sob she rushed from the kitchen. She put on her clothes and ran out of the house not even bothering to slam the door.

Out in the kitchen the old folks were sad. They could not eat the little food they had. The mother began to weep.

The father said, "She'll be back. Don't worry." He dropped his head in his hands. What else could I do?" he said heavily. "I am a poor man."

Together they waited in the kitchen for Henrietta to come home. The morning passed and she did not return. The noon hour came and no one ate. The afternoon drifted by and no one left the house.

Still Henrietta did not come home.

AT TWILIGHT when they were about to despair the door opened and there was Henrietta, white and tired and strangely old-faced.

She went to the father and said, "I am sorry I spoke so this morning, father. I know you had to do what was best for all."

Tears came to the father's eyes. He gathered Henrietta into his arms. "Child! Child!" he whispered.

Suddenly he leaped from his chair. "Come with me! We're going to get Willie back. If there's room in this house for anyone I guess there's room for Willie!"

All the family exclaimed with excitement and relief. The brightness and the wonderful little girl look came back into Henrietta's eyes.

"I gave Willie to Mr. Murphy, the drug store man," said the father. "I know he will give him back."

But when they went in the drug store Mr. Murphy shook his head. "The pup chewed up my wife's brand new marvelous hat. After that she couldn't stand the sight of him and I gave him to the grocer."

—:—

HENRIETTA and the father rushed to the grocery store but the grocer shook his head. "That dog ate up twenty dollars worth of food from my shelves in one morning. I had to give him away to Tony the paper boy."

They found Tony and he said, "Everytime I threw a paper the pup ran and brought it back to me. I never could get my papers delivered. I gave him to the janitor in the apartment house on the corner.

They went to the janitor. He said, "Sure you can have him back. I have him locked in the furnace room."

But when the janitor opened the furnace room the pup was gone. There was a broken window and anyone could plainly see Willie had run away from there and was gone forever.

Ohioan Says Reds Buried POW Alive

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Cincinnati recruiting sergeant, Orville R. Mullins, says he believes North Koreans buried alive one—possibly two—of his fellow prisoners of war.

Mullins, whose home is Covington, Ky., so testified yesterday to a Senate subcommittee investigating Communist atrocities in Korea.

Shortly after he was captured Aug. 27, 1951, Mullins said, he was being taken on an oxcart with other wounded to a prison camp near the Yalu River.

He had just shared a cigarette with two other wounded prisoners, he said, when a North Korean officer walked up and designated the two as dead.

Then, he continued, two Korean civilians buried the officers on a nearby hillside. Mullins swore one of the officers looked at him just before the Communists took him off the cart. And Mullins said the other man had been alive just shortly before.

Expanded U.N. Probe Sought On Atrocities

Potter Disappointed With Mere Censure, Wants Punishment

WASHINGTON (AP) -Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said today he will seek early Senate action on a request for a full-dress United Nations investigation of Communist atrocities in Korea .

Potter concluded a three-day Senate probe of Red atrocities last night with an announcement that he could not "conceal my great disappointment in the resolution of censure and the expression of 'grave concern' passed by the United Nations by a vote of 42 to 5."

He referred to the U. N. General Assembly resolution adopted Thursday. U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. pushed through the resolution over opposition of the Soviet bloc.

Potter said he will offer in the Senate, when it meets next month, a resolution to ask the U. N. to "appoint an impartial investigating commission in its next session to bring the Communists found responsible for these inhuman crimes to the bar of justice."

Potter, a member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, began the hearings here after Lodge asked U. N. action on the atrocity resolution. Potter said his new proposal is intended to bolster Lodge's position.

More than a score of survivors of Communist atrocities in Korea testified under oath during the public hearings.

This was done, Potter said so the "American people and all the peoples of the free world may fully understand the true character of this Communist enemy."

After World War II, Potter said, "Nazi and Japanese war criminals were tried and convicted for atrocities far less bestial than those committed by the Communists in Korea."

Potter said the sworn testimony shows Korean atrocities as "a distinct and calculated pattern of physical and mental tortures perpetrated to indoctrinate, to humiliate, and to exterminate American and Allied war prisoners."

One of the final witnesses, Col. James M. Hanley, said Gen. Douglas MacArthur ordered documentary evidence gathered on war crimes in Korea shortly after the Communist invasion began in mid 1950.

As a result, Hanley said: "We have evidence, affidavits, eyewitness accounts and photographs of the bodies."

Christmas Cheer Flowing

Year-End Bonus Checks Being Mailed

NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas cheer—expressed in dollars and cents—is beginning to flow.

American business firms are reported planning to hand out just about as much cash this year as last in the form of Christmas bonuses to employes, both of the white-collared and the blue - collared variety.

Year-end dividends to stockholders also are running ahead of payments last year. Dividend checks for the first 10 months of the year averaged four per cent larger than in 1952. With the current burst of specials for Christmas, dividend payments this year are expected to reach a cheery 9½ billion dollar total.

Regular wage and salary payments for the nation as a whole this fall were running, at an annual rate, eight per cent above a year ago—but the trend is slanting down from the peak.

The boss isn't doing too bad, either, although the American Management Assn. stresses today the average of the total compensation of high ranking business executives has been rising only slightly of late.

Bonus payments often make all the difference to top kicks of industry when they tally up their total take for the year.

Surveying some 15,000 executives in 1,868 companies, the AMA reports that bonus payments are equal to 43 per cent of salaries paid, and retirement compensation contributions equal 13 per cent of salaries. At this level of industry bonuses are usually tied to profits and sales, and have only a nodding acquaintance with the Christmas spirit.

Workers' chances of a Christmas bonus are fairly bright in those industries which have that pleasant habit, although the National Foremen's Institute of New London, Conn., reports the total of cash handed out may be no larger than last year, despite the business boom of 1953. This is the first year since 1950 that salaries have been free of government controls.

Polling 1,296 companies in all parts of the nation on their Chirstmas plans, the institute finds that 56 per cent plan to give bonuses. Last year 58 per cent did.

Just what is Free Enterprise?

THICK BOOKS have tried to define our American System of free enterprise. We can't hope to describe it fully here.

But this we can say. It is the world's best economic system . . . the best philosophy of man's relation to man yet evolved. It is basically a recognition of man as a mature, dignified being.

It is the exact opposite of communism, which regards man as a stupid slave, unable to plan and think for himself, requiring the "party" to control his every thought and action.

Under free enterprise, individuals own property, start and conduct businesses, assume risks and enjoy the resultant profits or assume the losses. What actually happens is that this incentive unleashes tremendous inner powers in men and women, and drives them to accomplishments that make us the greatest nation in the world.

Those who seek to destroy free enterprise are our enemies, driven by hate, jealousy and fear. Remember that, when they launch their propaganda.

Under free enterprise, a bank like ours grows along with the banking needs of the community. And the more we grow the better we can serve you. Make our bank your "headquarters" for all your money matters.

Christmas Shoppers' Methods Tailored to Individuals' Tastes

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeature Writer

From now until after the Christmas Eve office party, I'll thank all the beforehanded shoppers to leave me alone with my gift problems.

I am a last minute shopper by nature, if not by choice. I simply cannot seem to get into the spirit of Christmas shopping until the crowds are out, the salespeople haressed and the best items snatched up. What's more, I never seem to be able to think up just the perfect gift for each person on my list, so I wait until the last possible moment and snatch up whatever seems available and will get by.

A 12-Month Project

One of the reasons some people shop early, I have concluded, is so they can brag and nag about it between Thanksgiving and Christmas. I just thank my stars that they are seasonal birds, because there is positively nothing more nervous-making than listening to an early shopper when you haven't even set down your list of giftees on the back of a used envelope.

I know shoppers who work on Christmas the year around. One woman of my acquaintance took one day of a two-day tourist visit to Paris last summer to find a little shop on an obscure street and order a wide assortment of hand monogrammed handkerchiefs for Yule distribution.

Some Are Practical

Seveal months ago a foresighted friend invested in new glassware. She ordered tumblers, old-fashioned cocktail and wine glasses for herself—and at the same time ordered extra dozens of assorted glassware of the same pattern, all earmarked for Christmas gifts.

"Now," she remarked comfortable, "if I give a party and need more glasses, I'll know just where I can borrow some that match my pattern."

Others Hurtle Through

Obviously neither of these thoughtful operations are possible for the habitual, last minute shopper. We have to rely on swift footwork, sheer ingenuity and shock effects.

One year I was pretty proud of myself for hurtling through the annual chore in something less than 30 minutes. I purchased three dozen salt spoons and distributed them around to one and all. Everyone uses salt. I figured, and even if some of my recipients are too young to appreciate a personal salt spoon now, they will grow up to know and love it. TThe only slightly adverse reaction was from my cousin's family, which, in toto, received eight.

All Have The spirit

This year I propose to try a new late shopping device. Instead of going to the usual places to buy my gifts and fighting the crowds, I shall patronize off-beat spots like plumbing supply houses, hardware and drugstores.

All sorts of fascinating and useful presents are available, like assorted faucet washers, electric box fuses and kegs of nails. I'll bet some folks would even appeciate new locks for their front doors. Let others provide the handsome little flacons of perfume, I'll gift my friends with big, economy size bottles of aspirin tablets quickly available at the prescription counter of my local drugstore.

After all, the value of the gift is in the spirit of the giver, and by Christmas eve, I'm full of spirit.

Club Headquarters Here Decorated in Gay Holiday Motif

The Women's Club Home at 1126 E. Center St. has taken on a holiday air both inside and outside.

From the front door, where pine boughs and colorful balls are caught with a huge bow of magenta ribbon, to the second floor there are holiday decorations.

The mantel in the first floor parlor presents a festive and unusual scene with modernistic angels in tinsel and a soft shade of pink at either end, and in the center a manzanita tree in a matching tint decorated with tiny Christmas balls. Greenery completes the mantel decorations. Sprigs of greenery and colorful balls are caught to the floor lamps and side lights.

Doors of the large buffet in the diningroom have been transformed into picture windows with sparkling cutouts in tinsel of varied colors and silver which have caught the colors in the newly decorated room. The table has a large bowl filled with gaily colored balls and the crystal candelabra hold green candles.

In the large room on the second floor the mantel has a small gold Christmas tree as a centerpiece and candles and greenery complete the picture, and on the porch balcony is a large decorated Christmas tree.

Garlands of greenery are caught to the newel posts in both the downstairs and second floor stairs, and to the lights and on the mantel in the library.

Following the board meeting Tuesday, Dec. 15, open house will be held at the Home for one week for clubwomen and the general public, Mrs. J. Edwin Probst, president, announced.

By JOHN SHORT

Harding's well-oiled basketball machine powered its way to an easy 96-35 win over a hapless Willard High School squad last night on the losers' floor.

Bob Hamor dropped in a free throw after 13 seconds had gone by the boards and the Prexies were never in danger of losing the lead. Ron Conroy and Doug Bibler intercepted Willard passes and raced in for lay-up shots to give Harding a 5-0 lead before Willard's Dan Hanks collected the losers' first score, a charity toss after a minute and 47 seconds.

Race to Lead

The Prexies continued their drive and before Willard hit its first field goal at the 3:05 mark, they had built up a 10-1 lead. With three minutes remaining in the first quarter, the Harding quintet held a comfortable 21-7 cushio and before the period ended were in front 26-9.

A pressing defense and speed to burn enabled the Presidents to build up their lead and coast to the win. Eleven times during the first period, Prexy defenders intercepted Willard passes and many other times the Willard offense was bottled up.

At the middle of the second period, the Prexies had boosted their lead to 47-10 and Coach Jim Lawler pulled his starting five. Lawler, after the first three minutes of play, was the most relaxed person in the crowd. With the second line five in action, Harding's lead continued to increase and the Prexies left the floor at the half with a 51-14 margin.

Team Goal

Lawler refused the customary pep talk in front of the bench at the start of the third period and waved his charges into action without a word. During the intermission, several of the cagers set their sights on a 100-point production output.

Lawler apparently took a dim view of running up that figure. His starting five spent most of the third period on the bench but the Prexies continued to build their lead and at the start of the final period were ahead 75-25.

The starting crew remained on the bench until four minutes and 20 seconds remained to play. With the score standing at 83-32, they took over with their eyes on the 100 mark.

They added six points in the first 30 seconds before Willard finally found the way to stop the high-flying Harding team. The host team switched to possession ball with three minutes to play in an effort to halt the Presidents. The plan worked and Harding missed its goal by a slim four points.

The fast-breaking Prexes took 104 shots at the basket and connected on 41 for a respectable 39 per cent. They added 14 of 26 foul shots for a 54.9 per cent total from the charity line. Willard connected on only six attempts from the field.

Ron Conroy was Harding's big gun. He collected 25 markers during the runaway. Doug Bibler added 16 and Bob Hamor had 11. Dave Schnelker and Donnie Smith each pumped in 10. The entire Harding squad once again broke into the scoring column as 12 boys dropped in points.

Vice Presidents Win

Elvin Beach's Vice Presidents racked up a 54-43 verdict after a rough battle in the early stages. The Willard futures refused to give in the first quarter and trailed only 8-7 and at the half were ahead by a 22-21 count. A third-period spurt shoved the Harding juniors ahead 40-38 and defensive work in the final stanza clinched the verdict. Willard was able to score only four points while Harding netted 14.

Lowell McFann poured in 13 while Harold Jones and Keith Thackery each netted 10, Cok and Stanfield were high for the losers with 15 each.

Harding's next action will be Tuesday night when the Prexies entertan Columbus Aquinas.

Barons, Toledo Ready for Two Hockey Games

The third-place Marion Barons face off against Toledo twice in part of a busy weekend in the International Hockey League.

The locals travel to Toledo tonight and come home tomorrow to meet the Mercurys on the Coliseum ice at 3:30 p.m.

With eight games scheduled, there's enough action in the league to give the tightly packed standings a good shaking up and loosening.

In fact, when it's all over, the third-ranking Barons could find themselves closer to the top in second place, near the cellar in eight or anywhere in between.

Right now Marion shares third place with Louisville and Troy while Johnstown and Grand Rapids are tied for second with Ft. Wayne and Toledo together in fourth place.

Cincinnati and Milwaukee are firmly entrenched in their positions, Cincinnati in first and the Chiefs in the cellar. No matter what happens over the weekend, that is where they will be Monday morning.

The Barons will be operating without the services of Jerry Prince. Prince, a big gun in the Barons' attack all year, was knocked out of action, possibly for the season, when he fractured his left kneecap in Wednesday night's victory over Milwaukee. He is in Toronto where an operation is planned.

In other action tonight, it's Troy at Ft. Wayne, Louisville at Cincinnati and Johnstown at Grand Rapids. Tomorrow Grand Rapids goes to Troy, Cincinnati to Louisville and Ft. Wayne to Johnstown. Milwaukee enjoys an off weekend.

Farson with nine points and Dixon and Middleton each with eight paced the Don Ziesler coached team to victory. John Peacock led the losers with eight points.

Baker is at Morral next Thursday for its next contest.

Irish Gain 55-50 Decision Against Carey Blue Devils

By GARY SAMS

St. Mary squeezed by Carey's Blue Devils 55-50 in its season basketball opener on the losers' small floor Friday night.

Paced by Mike Anderson, leading Irish scorer of last year, during the first half and Roger Micheli in the second, the locals led all the way although the Carey squad knotted the count at the beginning of the final period and stayed in contention all the way.

Gain Early Lead

Three successive fielders by Anderson started Coach Ray Robbins' quintet off. Two more and four charity tosses helped the Irish maintain their lead during the first half.

Leading 9-7 at the first quarter halt, St. Mary opened up its largest margin of the game with a rally that stopped when the score mounted to 17-8. Carey, however, with Jim Jacoby, Grover Stoll, Jim Draper and Dwight Orians leading the way, closed the gap to a single point, 21-20, before Anderson connected from the side and Butch Merchant droped in a long one just as the first half gun sounded.

The Irish defense held the losers to only five field goals in the first half but Carey long shots accounted for 13 in the second half However, the locals remained in front until Orians on a lay-up deadlocked the score at 39-39 early in the final stanza. St. Mary recovered to go ahead for keeps on two long shots by Micheli as both clubs traded buckets until the locals assumed a comfortable margin late in the game .

St. Mary rolled to an eight-point lead, 31-23, beginning the second half before Carey, paced by Dick Snook, Orians and Jacoby, cut the gap to two points, 36-34. Merchant again dropped in another fielder, this time a longer one which just beat the gun to shove the Irish out front by four .

Score Knotted

Shortly later Carey moved into the 39-39 tie but Micheli took over to keep the Irish ahead the rest of the route. Four long shots and a free throw by him enabled the locals to stay in front by from one to four points as the losers matched his buckets to eventually cut the Irish margin to only two points. Then Jack O'Keefe dropped in a two-pointer, Larry Ryan a foul shot and Anderson a lay-up to shove the locals in front 53-46 and put the game on ice.

Anderson and Micheli each had 18 points for the Irish. Micheli's total came on eight fielders, six of them in the second half, while Anderson dropped in six field goals and the same number of free throws. O'Keeffe supported the pair with eight points. Jacoby was high for Carey with 20. Orians added 10 and Draper eight.

Trailing all the way, St. Mary's reserves bowed to Carey's futures 45-34. Grover Stoll with 13 points and Dick Snook with nine led the winners. Gene Myers added eight. Smith was high for the locals with 11.

Claridon, Morral and Waldo Still Lead League

Claridon, defending county tournament champs, Morral and Waldo, county league kings last season, remained neck and neck in the Marion County Basketball League with second victories Friday night.

Meanwhile, LaRue was dropping its first game after an opening win to Meeker, making its first league start, and New Bloomington was notching its first league win over a winless Martel crew.

Prospect, only other team undefeated in county league play, dropped a non-league decision to Harpster when the winners hit a field goal with only seconds remaining in the game.

Claridon Wins

Claridon built up a 19-7 lead in the first quarter and stayed ahead the rest of the way in winning its second league victory over Caledonia 52-32.

It was the Hornets' fifth victory in as many starts this season.

Gene Jessie, usually Claridon's high man, was edged out of scoring honors by Bud Price and Bob Johnson. Price had 16 and Johnson 13, while Jessie and Gary Row had 11 each.

Joe Green and Ervin Hunt were the top men for the Donians with 10 each.

Yakes Spark Waldo

The Yake family provided the margin of victory as Waldo rolled to its 66-47 victory at Green Camp. The two sets of brothers, George and Don and Dale and Stan, tallied 42 points with Don pouring in 22 to be the game's high scorer.

Keith Augenstein had 21 to be second high for the winners. George Rush led Green Camp with 16, getting some help from Al Stover who scored 13.

Green Camp kept up with the defending league champs until the final three minutes of the first half, but from then on it was Waldo's game.

In the junior high tilt it was Waldo by 35-27 with Wade tallying 10 to be top scorer.

Morral Rolls

Morral's cagers rolled to their second league victory with a convincing 71-28 win over Pleasant on the losers' floor.

The visitors jumped out front 15-5 at the opening quarter and added to their lead in the next three quarters.

Eight players hit the soring column for the winners, with John Craycraft leading the pack with 18 points. Clair Hensel and Ted Murphy each had 10 while Williams hit for eight. Jerry Gorby was high for the losers with 14.

Morral also notched a 31-19 win in the reserve tilt with Mannie Saxton hitting for 13 and Williams dropping in 10 for the winners. Morral entertains Richwood tonight, with action slated to begin at 6:30 p.m. with a junior high school game.

Meeker overcame a 12-9 deficit at the end of the first quarter to win its first league start with a 59-51 victory over LaRue.

The game gave LaRue a 1-1 slate in the county league.

Dick Sharp and Ron Newland were the big guns for the victors as they poured in 18 points each to ace the scoring. Larry Hickman was top man for the losers with 17.

Meeker made a clean sweep of the evening, winning the reserve tilt 34-24 and the junior high clash 33-31. Jim Herber was high man for the Meeker reserves with 13, while Ron Griffin was high for the Meeker juniors with 11.

New Bloomington Win

New Bloomington's cage crew copped its first league win after dropping its opening start by tripping Martel 65-45 on the home floor.

The winners took an 18-9 lead at the first quarter and outscored the losers in every other quarter to win pulling away.

Robert Schwaderer was the big gun for the winners, dropping in 28 points. Floyd Beers came in with 19 and David Johnson added 12. Barden with 22 and Linstedt with 14 supplied the scoring power for the losers.

A desperation long shot in the final seconds of the game gave Harpster a 38-37 decision over the winners' floor.

Harpster put the ball in play with only two seconds to go and Walcutt connected on the long shot. Bob Rodgers had shoved Prospect ahead 37-36 by sinking one of two free throws just before the game winning basket.

Prospect led at the first quarter 7-5 but the winners' stayed even during the second quarter and sliced the Prospect lead to 21-20 at the three quarter mark before the pace livened.

Rodgers with 14 and Seiter with 12 paced the Prospect attack. Shumate, Swihart and Walcutt each had 11 for the winners. Claridon is at Prospect Friday. Prospect took the reserve encounter 33-17.

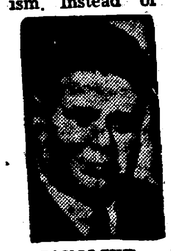
Legion's Book

By George Sokolsky

The American Legion, in its maturity, has developed a forceful expression of positive Americanism. Instead of devoting itself solely to the hoop-la of convention days, it publishes an excellent magazine, a news service; researches Un-American activities; and has now come forth witn an excellent book, "The American Legion Reader," edited by Victor Lasky.



SOKOLSKY

It is a little difficult to write about a book which includes an article by me; nevertheless I can view the other writers objectively, particularly as this anthology contains so many of them and they write on so many subjects. Victor Lasky has chosen well.

-:-

I ENJOYED reading Eugene Lyons's article, "Speak Up for America!" Because our essential intellectual task these days is to move away from quarrels and tensions and self-deprecations and to adopt a doctrine of positive Americanism — a belief in and acceptance of the three-century-old philosophic doctrines which erected upon this continent in so short a time the freest nation that has ever existed upon this Earth.

-:-

EUGENE LYONS states his case as follows:

"That American standards of life and health and education are the highest in all human history.

"That the human rights and equality before the law enjoyed by Americans are without match on this scale anywhere else on earth.

"That the world was saved from the scourge of Hitlerism by the miracles of American industrial output and technological genius, backed by American idealism.

"That in the struggle against the new scourge of Bolshevism the United States represents the main bulwark and hope of Western civilization.

"That the wealth generated by America's free economy and individualist philosophy is today feeding the hungry and healing the sick in vast segments of a distressed world.

"That millions of men and women in other countries have no higher dream than migration to the blessed soil of the United States.

"That never before has a nation as powerful as the United States been less of a menace to weak neighbors or more of a solace to enslaved peoples."

-:-

THAT IS OUR case up to a point. It is our secular case. But to it we need to add another, and I believe, a stronger side of Americanism — the religious, the spiritual side.

Perhaps it is stated on the inscription on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in our National Cemetery at Arlington, Virginia:

"Here Rests in Honored Glory an American Soldier Known But to God."

For the genius of our nation is its eternal spirituality, nurtured in the concept of this land as a sanctuary for religious freedom.

The Founding Fathers recognized their heritage and incorporated it in the Declaration of Independence.

What strength they brought to the task of founding a new nation came not from themselves as men, or from any one man as a leader, but from "Nature's God" and "Nature's Law," which is as true today as when Thomas Jefferson penned those words.

This is nowhere expressed as movingly as in the letter that Commander John J. Shea wrote to his son from the U.S.S. Wasp, which sank in the Pacific. To "Dear Jackie," he wrote:

"When you are a little bigger you will know why your daddy is not home so much any more. You know we have a big country and we have ideals as to how people should live and enjoy the riches of it and how each is born with equal rights to life, freedom and the pursuit of happiness.

"UNFORTUNATELY there are some countries in the world where they do not have these ideals, where a boy cannot grow up to be what he wants to be with no limit on his opportunities to be a great man such as great priest, statesman, doctor, soldier, business man, etc.

"Because there are people in countires who want to change our nation, its ideals, its form of government and way of life we must leave our homes and families to fight.

"Fighting for the defense of our country, ideals, homes and honor is an honor and a duty which your daddy has to do before he can come home and settle down with you and mother . . ."

Commander Shea died for the ideals which he handed down to his son, And it appears in "The American Legion Reader."

Probers Stew

By Victor Riesel

The newest screen designed to spot the first significant infiltration of an enemy which can demoralize millions of Americans has been stretched across country. Not by the military. By President Eisenhower's own economic brain trusters.

RIESEL

Strategically placed across the nation, watching for the first signs of danger of a return to the apples-on-the-egg-crate depression days of the 30's, are groups of economic spotters. They are primarily businessmen, but include college professors and newspaper reporters. Each spotter dispatches regular reports on what's happening to business in his community. These "alerts" go to Assistant Secretary of Commerce Walter Williams working in the White House.

-:-

THEY ARE then compiled, studied and made available to such men as chief economic braintruster Dr. Arthur Burns—who has his own set of "task forces" operating on the same front. Each "task force" is studying a series of maneuvers to be launched at the first signs of a recession detected by the trend spotters throughout the land.

Apparently President Eisenhower's big anti-depression push—if there should, indeed, be a slump—will be on a vast housing construction, reconstruction and renovating program costing billions of dollars.

There will be no return to the WPA kind of program through which most of us lived in those strange days of federal theater projects, CCC camps and mural paintings which overhadowed the "made work" relief, which was basically road building.

-:-

NOW 20 YEARS LATER, the White House plans to do for the people at large what the government did for the returning GIs after the last war—give millions of people a chance to buy new homes with smalldown payments.

Let them renovate, rebuild, tear down and clear slums by making money easily available.

For example, millions of families bought new homes in the 1945-1950 period as the boys returned from the last war and married.

Now, with growing children in the family, many need an additional room or two or want to buy a bigger place.

So the government plans, sometime next year, to set up a Federal Mortgage Credit Corporation —to guarantee mortgages and give any average citizen a chance to borrow even for home renovations.

So eager for this kind of program was the CIO's representative on one of the task forces—the housing advisory committee—that he even struck a bargain with the committee's bankers.

-:-

TO KEEP the giant steel mills belching forth the good smoke of a prosperous industry, and to make thousands on thousands of construction jobs, requires government money and push.

So the CIO people told the banking interests they would not turn in a minority report urging that interest on loans be kept down. Thus the Housing Advisory COMMITTEE (to Housing Administrator Albert Coles) is solid in its drive for this kind of housing program.

Coupled with this will be "terrific" school construction to add thousands of new rooms for the new youngsters; slum clearance for the raising of some 125,000 federally subsidizel housing units; state aid to speed thousands of miles of highway construction; even the pushing of underground garages, plants anl other accomodations in this era of man-made atomic energy.

THE OTHER "task forces" are studying federal aid to new construction, feleral aid to rehabilitation of construction (improvements), monetary and fiscal policies and public works. Of special interest to those now being laid off—or fearing layoffs next year—is the study of Labor Secretary Jim Mitchell.

He's looking into methods of improving unemployment insurance. A 1939 study reveals that unemployment benefits were about 40 per cent of wages paid when at work.

Today that is down to 33 per cent of what the average man earned before he was laid off.

-:-

IN OTHER WORDS, this type of relief now being paid to 972,000 idle workers has not kept pace with the rise in wages—and therefore not with the cost of living either.

Despite optimism in the White House and despite confidence in its spotters, task forces and standby programs—labor believes the administration is waiting too long to swing into action.

This week, Walter Reuther will move into Washington to challenge the President directly. Reuther has called a CIO Auto Union Full Employment Conference—and will demand that the White House take action now.

But whatever happens—this depression is just not going to sneak up on us as did the last one.

New Yorkers Miss Their Dailies

Millions Discover Value of Newspaper

NEW YORK (AP) — What is the power of the press?

Empty newsstands this week taught the world's greatest city the answer.

Millions of New Yorkers learned their favorite newspaper, like their favorite wife, was something they had taken for granted—something they now really appreciated for the first time because it was no longer there for them to depend on.

They missed the daily rendezvous with their daily newspaper, and nothing could quite take its place. A strike that silenced every major paper in the city for the first time in its history left holes, large or small, in every life Even blind men, for whom a newspaper is still a window to an unseen world, complained.

People discovered anew the importance of the printed word—the daily printed word. Television and radio reporters worked overtime to tell the news, but the spoken word didn't fill the gap left by the silent presses. Nothing could do all the things a daily newspaper does.

The first day of the strike my wife, Frances, remarked cheerfully:

"Well, it's nice to see your face at breakfast again after all these years. I had forgotten what you looked like across a scrambled egg."

"To tell you the truth I miss the advertising more than the news," she said the second day. "It's rather nice not to know all the terrible things that are happening in the world."

"Oh, I guess I can put off my Christmas shopping until this strike is settled," she said the third day. "You waste so much time shopping if you don't know what the stores are featuring."

But the fourth day she was hit by news hunger:

"Tell me what is happening. I want to know what is really going on. Even if most of the news is bad, I guess I want to know it. It makes me restless when there isn't a newspaper in the house."

I suppose this experience was typical in thousands of homes. The feeling of uneasiness deepened with each day of the strike. A newspaper is a mirror that reflects and fulfills many needs, and who likes to go day after day without looking in a mirror?

As a newspaperman, I found it odd to listen to the comments of readers on how the strike affected their personal lives.

"Gee, wouldn't you hate to get married now?" one girl asked another. "You couldn't even get your name in the Sunday paper, and I don't know how else I'll ever do it."

"My worst enemy could drop dead and I wouldn't know it," mourned a confirmed reader of the obituary page.

"How can I find out what my competitors are doing?" grumbled a businessman. "And what's going to happen to my Christmas business if I can't place an ad?"

The cross word puzzie addicts complained crossly they didn't know what to do with their hands and brains on the way to work. The children missed the comics almost as much as the adults.

The letters-to-the-editor writers had no forum for their gripes. Housewives didn't like doing without their beauty hints, or the lovelorn editor's advice on how to deal with a middle-aged wayward husband. Joe, who had quarreled with Maisie, had no place to put a personal ad saying, "M. It's all my fault. Please answer my phone calls. Very important. Joe."

The folks who dote on high society were unable to find out who was being seen with whom, or what prominent playboy had thrown champagne in what prominent play girl's face. The civic leaders held up announcements. Broadway gossip was better known in Dubuque than it was on Broadway.

Some 65,000 metropolitan press agents were either in semi-hysteria, or telling unconvinced clients, "I had your picture lined up for every front page in town, just before the papers shut down."

Everypody from the horse player to the stockbroker was seeking to find new avenues to the daily information he wanted.

There was a great void in the daily voice of the city. Each missel something of the power of the press—its many-faceted power to inform, advise, enlighten, and entertain its millions of readers in a complicated world which nothing can explain so well as the daily newspaper.

"This would be a hell of a time," said one reader, "for anybody to start a really bad rumor."

A sord is a flock of mallard ducks in flight.

News Walkout In NYC Enters Second Week

No Progress Reported; Losses Mounting, Set At Several Millions

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York City newspaper strike enters its second week today as negotiators and federal mediators renew their efforts to resolve a deadlocked wage dispute between publishers and photo-engravers.

New Yorkers seemed increasingly lost without any major local daily to read, although television and radio has been striving to fill the news vacuum created by the walkout which started last Saturday.

No Change Reported

After yesterday's negotiation meetings all parties reported "absolutely no change" in the situation.

Later in the day, officials of striking Local 1 of the AFL International Photo-Engravers Union and other unions affected by the walkout held a two-hour session.

After it ended Thomas Murphy, executive vice president of CIO Newspaper Guild Local 3 commented:

"Things look no better today than last week and they were bad then."

Federal Mediator Walter A. Maggiolo set another mediation meeting for 11 a.m. (EST) today.

Loss In Millions

The strike, especially during this pre-holiday season, has caused losses in merchandising, advertising and wages running into many millions of dollars.

The fact that the nation's largest city is without a major newspaper evoked an editorial statement yesterday by Editor & Publisher, newspaper trade journal, that the New York City newspaper unions were "completely irresponsible" and had "suppressed a free press."

The trade magazine said the Taft-Hartley law should be amended to ban strikes in any communications industry, adding: "Mandatory arbitration is called for. Communications are the lifeline of this country."

Dennis Burke, president of the striking photo-engravers' local, said he had no immediate comment.

Guild Leader's Comment

But from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Joseph Collis, president of the CIO American Newspaper Guild, issued a statement which said in part:

"Free press, apparently, is construed by the publishers to mean they are free to publish when they wish, and free not to publish when they wish . . .

"Some of the papers in New York are afraid to publish. This has been demonstrated by the fact that two papers which previously pubished have been whipped into line by the closed shop of their own union . . ."

Collis was referring to the Herald Tribune, which voluntarily closed down two days after the other six major city newspapers were struck, and the Long Island Star-Journal, which stoped printing yesterday when its stereotypers refused to handle comics and news to have been carried as paid advertising from the six struck newspapers.

Newspaper's Position

The Herald Tribune, in announcing its suspension of publication, said:

"We take this action because it is clear that the continued publication . . . is being used as an instrument to obstruct normal collective bargaining. In this connection a responsible union official involved in the current strike was quoted as saying, if the Herald Tribune is publishing and the Times is closed, it won't stay closed long."

In Washington, however, the CIO's general counsel, Arthur Goldberg, suggested yesterday that the Justice Department investigate whether the Herald Tribune's voluntary suspension of publication violates the anti-trust laws.

Goldberg said the Herald Tribune's action, "if taken in agreement with other newspapers—as it obviosly was — constitutes an agreement in restraint of trade prohibited by the anti-trust laws."

The Herald Tribune said last night it would have no immediate comment.

Eisenhower took the line in his comments that there has been no change in the basic Russian aim of world conquest despite the changes in Kremlin personalities. He saw the possibility of switches in Soviet tactics but obviously felt a very firm line was necessary in the West's relations with the Russians.

Thoughts of Soldiers Center on Home

2 Marion Soldiers Now Serving in Korea Call Parents From Japan

This will be the first Christmas away from home for many Marion servicemen.

Typical of the men in uniform from Marion, and across the nation, who'll spend the holiday in a Korean tent, are 17-year-old Pvt. Arthur Welch, son of Mrs. Mamie G. Welch of 693 Bellefontaine Ave., and Pfc. David E. Weaver, whose wife and six-month-old daughter, Debora, live at 639 Park St.

They'll eat Christmas Day dinner in a far-off land, but their thoughts, like the thoughts of thousands of other GIs, will be at home.

PFC. WEAVER phoned home just two days before Thanksgiving from Japan, where he was on rest leave. He was permitted to talk for five minutes, probably the shortest five minutes of his life. He didn't have time to say much about conditions over there, just stated that he was glad to have the leave. He even talked with his young daughter, whom he's never seen. Her "comments" didn't make much sense, but had a lot of meaning.

Weaver was drafted Sept. 20, 1952. He left for Korea just two months before his daughter was born. He took his basic training at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., and was stationed there until he was shipped overseas. He is attached to the 14th Infantry Regiment.

—:—

PRIOR TO his induction, he was employed as an electrician's helper at the Marion Engineer Depot, where he had worked four years since his graduation from Harding High School. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Weaver of near Marion.

His biggest wish right now, of course, is to come home. He's hopeful of getting a discharge in February or March, but said that there is nothing definite.

Korea looks about like Pennsylvania to young Pvt. Welch. The weather there is about the same as it is here, except there's a lot of rain. In fact, it's been raining for seven days and nights now and when Pvt. Welch steps from the army tent he wades knee-deep in mud. It's getting colder there now, but still no snow.

PVT. ARTHUR WELCH

PFC. DAVID E. WEAVER

Pvt. Welch made a long distance phone call Sunday night to his mother while he was on a 10-day rest leave at Koba, Japan. Cost of the 20-minute conversation was more than $100, as far as the family could figure. Pvt. Welch reversed the charges. The call was worth every cent of it, according to the Welch family.

Pvt. Welch talked to his mother, his older sister, Mrs. James Willis and her husband, to his sisters, Arlene and seven-year-old Joan, who was too sleepy to recognize her brother's muffled voice from far-off Korea, and his brother, Floyd. He said "hi" to his sister's children, Erma and Carolyn.

HE SPENT THANKSGIVING in Korea, too. What did he think of it? He'd rather have had cube steak than the traditional turkey and dressing that he did have. Steak is his favorite.

What does he want for Christmas? First request was for an electric razor. For the first few months of his six-month stay in Korea, when he was on the front lines, there was no electricity. Now he's stationed five miles from Seoul, and for two or three hours in the evenings electricity is provided by generators. There are no other modern conveniences.

His second place gift suggestion was an olive drab sweater. "Hard tack" candy was also mentioned.

THE SOLDIER'S family sends a box to him every Saturday. Five weeks later it arrives in Korea. Since he's been in Korea, Pvt. Welch has received 11 boxes. They are always packed full with "delicacies." Usually they include candy, cheese wrapped in tin foil, or pickled pigs feet, another of the soldier's favorites. One of the boxes contained 20 pounds of candy. The family also air mails paper and envelopes and writing materials to him because it's hard to get the items in the area where he is stationed.

Pvt. Welch, who's been in the Army slightly less than a year, will be 18 years old in January. He enlisted when he was a sophomore at Harding High School. Almost immediately after basic training at Camp Polk, La., and a seven-day furlough at home, he was sent overseas. He was attached to the service supply company of the 32nd Army Division.

HIS JOB NOW is to assist in filling tankers and to stack drums of gasoline, oil and crude oil. His tour of duty in Korea will last about 18 months yet. He originally enlisted for three years, but Congress increased the enlisted man's required service to four years.

Until time for them to come home, the most important thing to Pvt. Welch, Pfc. Weaver or any of the servicemen is mail. A letter can accomplish a lot, as both Marion servicemen will testify. Chances are that on Christmas Day the letters will be treasured more than all the packages stacked together.

2 Youths Arrested On Charge of Theft

Two Marion youths are being held by city police today charged with petty larceny in the theft of $9 from a Will Rogers Memorial gift donation can in the lobby of the Marion Theater.

Report of the theft was made to police at 7:14 p.m. Wednesday by Cloy Allen, manager of the theater. He brought the can to the police station and said he suspected two youths.

Police took the two into custody yesterday and both later admitted they committed the theft. In Municipal Court this morning, one, aged 17, pleaded guilty to a petty larceny charge and was sentenced 30 days in the Columbus Workhouse and fined $100 and costs by Judge W. Dexter Hazen. The other, 16 years old, is being held in the Marion County Detention Home for appearance in Juvenile Court next week.

McCarthy

But he said he would keep a constant check. He declined to name the source of his information.

McCarthy said his own office had received about 200 telegrams yesterday. He said they ran at the rate of about 50-1 in favor of his stand.

Toledo Residents Jump At Chance To Back Ike

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — After a frantic seven-hour deluge of telephone calls, the Toledo Blade cut off its switchboard at midnight last night and sent home 40 exhausted men and women who had been trying to keep up with the overwhelming response to a "phone your letter" suggestion made on the front page of yesterday's Blade.

More than 10,000 persons responded to the suggestion that "Since Sen. McCarthy did not ask those who agree with the President to write, the Blade will make that request."

The offer came in response to the suggestion Sen. McCarthy made Thursday that citizens critical of some phases of the administration's foreign policy should write the President.

The paper asked readers to telephone if they wished their names signed to the following letter:

"Dear Mr. President: We supported you before and we do now. We still like Ike."

In keeping with its independent position in politics, the Blade offered to forward also any messages approving Sen. McCarthy's stand.

The final score at midnight was: 9,870 signatures for Ike; 324 for McCarthy, for a total of 10,194.

Galion fire department sent a pumper truck and crew in answer to a call for help. Volunteer firemen known as the "Minutemen" also were called.

Fire Chief Mead tentatively established the start of the fire sometime between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m. when the alarm was sounded. Two police cruiser patrolmen reported they made a routine patrol near the plant and pulled into a driveway to turn around about 2 a.m. but saw no smoke or flames at that time.

Arson Ruled Out

Mead ruled out the possibility of arson and said he believed there was no doubt but that the blaze started accidentally.

The Cobey Corp. has its headquarters in Galion and in addition to the two Bucyrus plants also owns and operates the Perfection Steel Body Co. at Galion. The other Bucyrus plant is located on the east side of the city in a building formerly occupied as the New York Central Railroad shops.

Both Bucyrus plants manufacture various types of farm machinery.

Man Knocked Down, Robbed By Two Youths

City police today are investigating a report that two youths, one thought to be a girl, knocked down a Marion man walking along Gill Ave. and stole his wallet containing some $14 late last night.

Report of the attack first came to police from Mrs. Ernest Abrams of 753 Gill Ave. at 12:58 a.m. this morning. She said her husband was attacked while walking toward home a few minutes earlier.

Police talked to Abrams who told them he was walking east across Gill Ave. toward the Cory Rubber Co. plant when two youths jumped him from behind and knocked him to the sidewalk. He said he thought one was a girl, but wasn't sure of this because they immediately ran north on Gill Ave. After he arrived home, Abrams said, he discovered that his wallet was missing.

Police toured the area and later talked to the night watchman at the Betty Zane Corn Products Co. plant who told them he saw three young boys running north along the Pennsylvania Railroad track about the same time. Police said they were unable to locate the youths.

Most Need More Space

Home Modernizing Made Popular by Changed Life

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

How to modernize a house is a subject that is becoming more and more popular because we are living differently than we used to.

Shorter work weeks, more leisure time, hobbies, gardening, the do-it-yourself trend, television and radio, the organized ballyhoo for home ownership — and many other factors are making people much more home conscious.

Modernizing Complicated

But modernizing a home is a complicated problem. It raises such questions as "what house?" and "What is modern?" Many books have been written—close to a small library of them—trying to give us some common denominators to work with.

One of the most ambitious of recent volumes we have seen is "The Complete Book of Home Modernizing" by Samuel Paul, architect, and one of his colleagues, Robert B. Stone. It has just been published by the H. S. Stuttman Co.

This is a sort of an omnibus book, drawing on various trade contributions by way of illustrations, but the authors tackle the subject of modernization on the practical basis of how you and your family live.

"The home belongs to both the parents and the children." They keep that in mind.

"Space is the first requisite for an atmosphere of comfort and graciousness in which your family and guests will always feel at ease." You can agree with that, but space is the most expensive commodity home builders have for sale.

"Two children of widely different ages should not share the same bedroom," the authors continue. "Such enforced intimacy can create behavior problems.

Child's Play Area

"A play area where the small child can express himself as an individual avoids frustrating conflicts with older members of the family. An efficient kitchen, laundry and up-to-date bathroom are mandatory to facilitate mother's work. Space where father can retreat to his favorite hobby or occasional business homework will ease another potential strain."

The organization of space in a home is analyzed. "An otherwise ample house is still overcrowded if there is a lack of space for a particular function," these writers observe. "For example, only one bathroom for three children and two parents can result in bedlam every morning. Such a family can surely list an extra bathroom as a must, plus a second lavatory in the existing bathroom."

Bathroom Plans

Plans, diagrams, sketches and photos show just about every kind of a bathroom you'd like to have — from the half-bath to the double bath, solarium bath, health room, etc. Other rooms are handled accordingly.

Of course, there are some houses that just can't be modernized — beyond a coat of paint and other routine renovations. Paul and stone admit this.

But their theme, which is obviously true, is that "There is probably no house standing that could not be improved — in its materials, in its structure, and in the way it reflects and encourages the changing, modern American way of life."

The moral seems to be that we can't "sanely modernize" our homes without giving the problem as much serious thought and investigation as we'd give the planning of a new house.

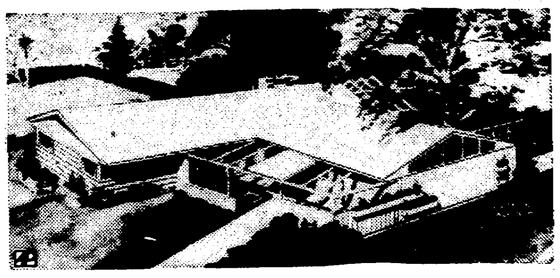
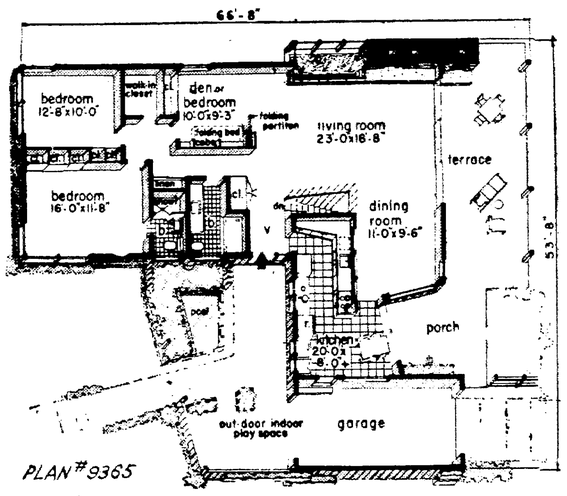
PAINTING THE HOUSE

If you're painting the outside of your house wait until the morning dew has dried from the surface before you start painting.

Home Has Double Usage





By The Associated Press

INDOOR-OUTDOOR LIVING is exploited in this plan for a house erected by the Long Island Home Builders Institute and AFL building trades unions as a contribution toward raising funds for 13 community hospitals. Materials, equipment and services were donated by more than 150 associate members of the institute. The house is offered as a prize in a hospital fund raising campaign. Features include doors at both ends of the garage to create covered play space for children in bad weather. A picture window adjoining the living room fireplace extends into the finished basement, where plants and vines grow up from the basement through the living room level. Sliding glass walls merge living room and terrace, where a barbecue fireplace is provided in the massive multiple chimney. The house covers 1,585 square feet without porches and garage. It was designed by Matern & York, architects, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N.Y.

...better bathing, a radiant complexion

So clean feeling in the bath . . .

A refreshing beauty bath in water softer than rain is yours whenever you wish. A bath in the creamy, lasting, soft water suds is an experience you'll never forget. You'll feel every pore being thoroughly cleansed . . . and the suds rinse off in a jiffy, leaving you feeling really clean all over.

With no more "BATHTUB-RING" . . .

The old-fashioned but very familiar "bathtub-ring" is not dirt. It is soap curd formed when soap tries to soften hard water. With soft water service there is no curd formed . . . and no ring. Just think of the time and scouring powder you'll save when you clean the bath room.

. . . and so saving, too.

SOAP. Thousands of households have proved that softened water saves soap—sometimes half, usually more. Ask to see our amazing soap test that proves just how much you can save.

WATER HEATING. You save substantial amounts of fuel used for heating water—often as much as 50%—with softened water and scale-free heating coils.

PLUMBING BILLS. You banish scale and clogged pipes when you have soft water service installed in your home. You also stop annoying faucet drips caused by scale. Saves repairs, too.

Aid for the Ailing House

By ROGER WHITMAN

Q: I would like to have some advice on plastering the walls in my home. The walls are covered with plasterboard with wooden slats underneath. Could I plaster right on top of this plasterboard, which would avoid a lot of work, or do you advise tearing the plasterboard off and plastering on the slats?

A: If the plasterboard is of the large wallboard variety, that is, if it comes in four-foot widths and lengths from six feet up, it is not advisable to apply plaster. There is a type of gypsum lath that comes especially made for plastering purposes. If it should become necessary to tear off the wallboard I assume that the slats behind it are the regular wood-lath strips. If so, plaster can be applied.

Q: I wonder if you could tell me how I could clean an oil painting or where we can get that information

A: Dust and dirt can be removed by wiping with equal parts of rubbing alcohol and turpentine. A soft brush or absorbent cotton can be used for this. If the surface has become dull it can be brightened by using a sparing quantity of the cream type of furniture polish. To avoid damage to the canvas or the paint, support the back of the picture firmly so that any pressure from the front won't tend to tear the canvas or crack the paint. If the paintings are valuable, I suggest that you consult your local art museum. Some one in that organization could furnish you with several names of professional restorers.

Q: We purchased a new home three years ago and there is no basement. The concrete floor is covered with asphalt tile. When the weather gets below freezing the floors sweat on all outside walls. We called waterproofing contractors and they are puzzled and say they can do nothing There seems to be no roof leakage because during rainy or snowy weather we do not have as much of this condition. What can you suggest?

A: Your problem is one of condensation (sweating). The outer edges of the concrete floor slab become very cold because of the low temperatures outdoors. When the warm air in the house comes in contact with the cold surfaces the humidity in the house air condenses. A condition of this kind can be eliminated by insulating the outer edges of the concrete slab with an insulating material that is waterproof. Your local insulating contractors or dealers in insulating materials should be able to supply the proper type of material.

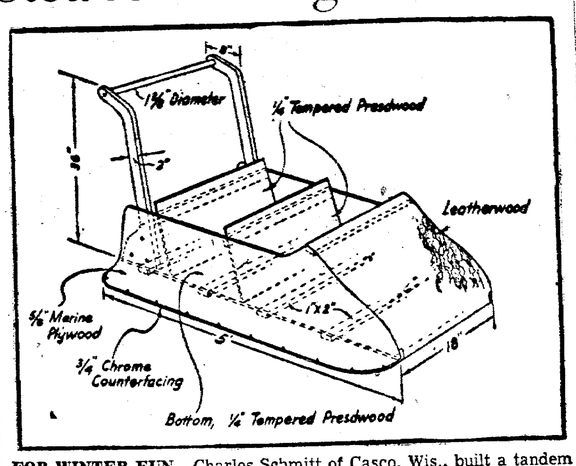
Sled for Youngsters' Fun



FOR WINTER FUN. Charles Schmitt of Casco, Wis., built a tandem enclosed sled like this for winter airings of his two youngsters. Easily pushed by a skater, this sled is certain to give kids a thrill.

Here's how Schmitt built it: The sides are ⅝-inch marine plywood, rabbeted to accommodate sheets of ¼-inch tempered pressed wood, which form the bottom and seat backs. Leatherwood, an embossed hardboard, is used for the hood in front. Chromium counter molding is attached to the bottom edges of the plywood to form a metal runner on each side.

The handles are shaped from marine plywood of the same thickness and bolted to the sides of the sled. As a cross-bar, Schmitt uses an 18-inch length of 1⅜-inch closet pole. The ends are drilled and pluggde with a ⅜-inch dowel. The dowels are glued in with waterproof plywood glue and both glued and nailed where they fit the handles.

Red and white paint is applied in lines to accentuate the streamlined design. The children's names are stenciled on in white at their respective positions.

YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

In practically every medium-priced house built during the last six or eight years, many small refinements that once were considered absolutely essential in a well-finished job have been left out. It is not that they are costly but that the builder desires to save the labor cost of installing them. It seems a pity but it is an actual fact that a 50-cent piece of hardware often requires $3 worth of labor to put it in place.

Among the many omitted items the one that causes the greatest inconvenience to the homeowner is the lack of sash lifts. These small pieces of hardware are absolutely essential in any house where the owner wants to raise a window occasionally without a struggle. Where sash lifts are missing and the window is a tight fit, the only alternative is to pound up against the top of the sash to open the window. Repeated struggles of this kind can only end with a loose sash which will eventually deteriorate.

There are several types of sash lifts. Probably the best is the small looked-lip fitting shown in the top thumbnail sketch. These enable you to hook a finger under each and get excellent leverage for lifting the sash. Another type of sash lift is the standard bar handle, resembling the pulls on a chest of drawers or a bureau. A third type, which requires some skill to install, is the recessed lift which enables one to get four fingers into the recess.

It actually takes about 10 minutes to line up a pair of sash lifts, make a nail hole, and set in the screws. The job might save you many hours of irritation and damage to the windows.

Postal Carrier Ends 30 Years Work at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION — Horse and buggy delivery in the winter, and often in the summer when the rural roads were mostly "dirt" was experienced by Elmer G. Dill when he first began service out of the Galion postoffice. He retired this week after 30 years in postal service, having started Dec. 1, 1922.

Many changes in mail service have taken place since Dill first began as a subsitute carrier on a rural route for Sam Wilson. A short time later, Dill substituted in the office, working first during the Christmas season in 1922. At that time a handcart was used to deliver parcel post packages. When there was snow on the streets, mailmen used a hand sled to carry th parcels. Now, the big parcels are delivered by truck.

For the past 16½ years. Dill has been regular rural mail carrier on RFD 3. He has seen an increase on his route from 250 mail boxes when he started to 463 when he retired. Mail has increased to about four times what it was when he began on the rural route, Dill said.

He had varied service since he began in the postal service. After serving as a substitute carrier, he became night clerk for over a year. Later he was mailing clerk during the daytime. When Miss Laura Claes retired (about 1932) Dill took over the money order department in the post office, and worked at this for five years. He traded his office position for the rural route of Elmer Althouse. Since that time Althouse has been in charge of the money order department in the post office.

When Dill first began his service, he was living on a farm, east of Galion. After a year of his new work, he moved to Galion.

Upon his retirement, Tuesday of this week, Dill was presented luggage from his associates. Fred Wilson is serving Route 3 temporarily.

Tempers Hot At Hearings Of Velde Group

Official of Longshore Union Pounds Table, Rails at Congressman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee completes its turbulent West Coast hearings today.

The committee, headed by Rep. Harold H. Velde (R-Ill), adjourned last night with one of Harry Bridges' longshore union officials angrily pounding a congressman's desk.

And new flareups were expected today with a large number of witnesses—some hostile to the committee, according to aides—scheduled to appear.

Charles (Chili) Duarte of Oakland, swarthy president of Local 6 of the International Longshoremens and Warehousemens Union, set off the uproarious climax to yesterday's hearing.

Duarte was dismissed as a witness before his planned effort to try to show that an earlier witness who called him a Communist has a jail record.

He stalked angrily to the desk of Rep. Clyde Doyle (D-Calif).

Pounding on the desk and gesturing violently, Duarte claimed that the committee had damaged him in the eyes of his community.

He said that Doyle, as a candidate supported by labor, should be ashamed of the group's conduct. The congressman reminded Duarte that Velde had adjourned the hearing after the union leader had refused to tell whether he was a Communist.

Police kept back the crowd, which had surged to the front of the hearing room.

Duarte later issued a statement saying that he is not and never was a Communist but that the committee had no right to "smear" him.

In other actions yesterday:

1. Velde renewed his demand that Harry S. Truman respond to a committee subpoena in the Harry Dexter White case. Velde said the former President's administration could have destroyed Red conspiracy in the United States years ago, and Truman owes it to the public to testify on whether there still are spies. So far he has refused.

2. Donald Ames, 39, Gig Harbor Wash., named 50 persons he said he knew as Reds while he and his wife, Peggy, were Communist informers for the FBI in Oakland, Base, Wash.

3. James W. Benet, 39, San Francisco newspaperman and son of the late Pulitzer prize poet, William Rose Benet, testified that he is not now a Communist. However, in a dignified exchange he refused on grounds of possible self-incrimination to say whether he ever had been one or to comment on testimony from one of the committee's earlier hearings naming him as a leader of the Patrick Henry Communist Club in New York.

CLIPPINGS

HOLYOKE, Mass. (UP) — A young man serving a three-month jail sentence here apparently takes pride in his press notices. When he was stopped for driving an uninsured automobile without a license, police found in his wallet a press clipping that showed he had been in court previously for the same offense.

LOGICAL QUESTION

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (UP) — Four-year-old Larry Gene Hubbard was watching a neighbor move and asked his mother, "How in the world are they going to get that big house on the truck?"

Castle, Not Wanted, To Be Demolished

PALLASKENRY, Ireland (UP)—One of Ireland's most modern castles is to be demolished because no one wants it.

Dromore Castle, built in Limerick County some 80 years ago by the third Earl of Limerick, is just the latest in a series of doomed Irish castles.

Morgan McMahon's sawmill company bought Dromore and its 100 acres of surrounding timber land in 1939. McMahon lived in the chilly gray stone gothic fortress until three years ago. He tried to sell Dromore for a number of years and finally got the Irish government to agree to buy the land on the condition that he demolish the castle, a job that will take about six months.

Irish castle owners have tried to keep their castles from falling under wreckers' sledges but have had little success. One owner last summer offered for rent a 12th century castle near Dublin for a pound ($2.80) a year. He found no takers.

Judge Upholds Right In Trial on Murder Charge in Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A common pleas judge hearing a murder trial here has upheld a newspaper reporter's right to withhold the source of his information.

"The law in Ohio is very clear on this question," Montgomery County Common Pleas Court Judge Don R. Thomas said, adding that "no exceptions are permitted."

The first degree murder trial of Victor D. Arnett, 40, accused of killing Hugh Early, 33, Aug. 6, on a Dayton street, is under way.

During the course of the trial, Arnett's attorney, Robert Schroader tried to block introduction of a confession reportedly made by Arnett. He claimed he had an agreement with police that they would not question Arnett, who surrendered to his lawyer originally, unless he, Schroader, was present.

Schroader said agreement was violated and police got Arnett's confession when he was not present.

In the trial session Thursday, Tom Arnold, Dayton News police reporter, took the witness stand after being called by the defense. Schroader had him read and identify an artclei he wrote on Aug. 10, telling of the police questioning of Arnett and Arnett's subsequent confession. In the story Arnold related a statement given him by a detective that Arnett had said, in substance, that after being questioned he was so confused he didn't know what was going on. The detective was not named in the story. When Arnold took the ta Snchroader tried to get him to name detective.

Arnold declined. Schroader asked Judge Thomas to direct the witness to answer. It was then the judge said "the law in Ohio is very clear on this question . . ."

Oratorio To Be Directed By Prof Rex. Keller of OWU Faculty

By ELAINE BALLINGER

With more than 100 singers from the Marion community supplemented by musical talent from music circles of Cleveland, Columbus, and Delaware, the Marion Civic Chorus will give for music lovers of the area the annual "Christmas gift" performance of the Handel oratorio, "The Messiah."

It will be presented at 8 p.m. Sunday in Epworth Methodist Church.

Heard here at the beginning of the Advent season each year, presentation of the master composition of the old German musician has become a tradition associated with the Yuletide observance of the city, and first Sunday in December is the one set aside by custom for this special event.

IN THE HARMONY of voices, strings, and keys, in cadences blended by the aged composer more than 200 years ago, the age-old account of the life of Christ, his coming to earth and his ministry to the multitudes as the Messiah, savior of mankind, will be told.

Guest soloists will be Mrs. Gwendolyn Brooks Wilson of Columbus, soprano; Leonard Edwards of Cleveland, tenor and Gordon Almstead of Delaware, bass. Mrs. Esther R. Hale of Marion, president of the Civic Chorus, is the contralto soloist. Prof. Rexford Keller of Delaware, head of the music department at Ohio Wesley an University, is director, and Mrs. Dorothy B. Jennings and Mrs. Elza T. Williams, both of Marion, piano accompanist and organist, respectively.

courses in music literature at the university; and Martha Bowlus, who plays viola and is an assistant to Prof. Keller as instructor in organ.

The music of the oratorio which has brought the praise and enthusiasm of audiences around the world down through the years was written by a man who had found anew in his declining years the joy of creating once more a work of art after a pall of unproductive years of discouragement and despair.

OLD ANNALS TELL of the man, Georg Friedrich Handel, and of a "miracle" of refreshed spiritual insight by which he attained an acclaim such as he had never received before in his early musical career.

Ill, crippled, and defeated by jealousy of his rivals, Handel found life in his adopted London, where he had once been honored, as scarcely worth living as he was nearing old age in 1741, it is recorded. A short renewal of good fortune did not last. Then from the poet, Charles Jenner, came a libretto to be used as a sacred oratorio.

SUDDENLY from the pages the words took on a special significance for the one who was to set them to music. It was the description of the rejected Christ, yet its application to the reader seemed as his own personal experience. The words from the Scripture were, "He was despised and rejected of men. He looked for someone to have pity on Him, but there was no man; neither found He any to comfort Him."

In the hours following this revelation, Handel neither ate nor rested until the finishing touches of his work came to form. When London publishers were unimpressed, he took "The Messiah" to Ireland. There two choirs merged for the production gave the first performance of the oratorio in April, 1742. Response of the audience was electric, and a tradition which is followed to this day wherever "The Messiah" is sung, was initiated. With one accord the audience rose to its feet in tribute to the now famed closing strains of the anthem of praise, the "Hallelujah Chorus."

CHOSEN TO SING the special solos here were vocalists whose experience has been extensive in a variety of musical activitites.

Taking prominent part in music club and church choir programs in Columbus, Mrs. Wilson has been soprano solist at First Baptist Church, Second Church of Christ, Scientist, Congregational Church, and North Broadway Methodist Church in that city. For the last three years, she has been soloist of the non-denominational Tabernacle of Thousand Island Park in New York where she has given a summer concert each year.

The musical career of Mr. Edwards is rooted in his native land Wales, where he was a boy soprano solist at 10 years of age. During his years in this country he has had extensive singing engagements in radio and concert work.

UNTIL A FEW years ago, he was solist for the Cleveland Orpheus Male Chorus and was coached vocally by its director, Dr. Charles Dawe, an autnority on oratorios. He has appeared with the Cleveland Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, was for some time a soloist in Masonic bodies, and formerly was soloist at several of the largest churches in Cleveland. At present he is tenor soloist at the Lakewood Christian Church.

Mr. Almstead, who was heard here in "The Messiah" last year, is an instructor in the music department at Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware. A native of Pittsfield, Mass., his vocal ability was discovered in high school. He studied at the Curtis Institute of Music, under Gian-Carlo Minotti, Marion Seckely Freschl, and Richard Bonelli. He came to Ohio Wesleyan in 1951 from the faculty of the Philadelphia Academy of Music. His experience in singing includes television work in Philadelphia, membership in the American Opera and Strand Opera Companies, and extensive engagements as recitalist and oratorio soloist. In 1947 and 1948, he was winner of the Philadelphia Young Musicians Series Award, and in 1949 was the Massachusetts representative to the National Association for Opera in Milwaukee, Wis.

MRS. HALE, Marion Civic Chorus president, started her music career at an early age as a piano student at the Dayton Conservatory of Music, then studied voice with Dr. John Finley Williamson of the Westminster Choir and Choir College at Princeton, N. J. She has been a private voice teacher in Marion a number of years, and is at present choir director of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church and president of the Marion Lecture-Recital Club.

During her time with Westminster Choir, she was soloist with the Touring Choir Groups going in 1925 on the first eastern tour of large cities of that section of the country. Both years of the New York Worlds Fair the choir gave performances with Bruno Walter conducting his fiftieth anniversary program at Carnegie Hall.

SHE HAS made numerous radio recital and oratorio appearances in Michigan and Ohio, was soloist a number of years in various churches of different denominations and faiths at Dayton, Lansing, Mich., Youngstown and Marion, and has been soloist in many performances of "The Messiah" and directed the performance of the oratorio here a few years ago. In Marion, she has been soloist for First Presbyterian Church and directed choir for Trinity Baptist Church, and was solo-ist two years and choir director 12 years at Epworth Methodist Church.

Prof. Keller, the oratorio director, has been head of the Ohio Wesleyan University music department since 1934. His major fields of interest are organ, theory, and choral conducting, and he has held the position of minister of music in churches in Michigan, Indians and Ohio.

On leave of absence from Ohio Wesleyan in 1945 and 1946, he taught at Biarritz American University at Biarit, France, at the invitation of the government in the program of post-war U. S. Army colleges which it established in Europe.

THE PLACE OF Mrs. Dorothy Jennings as a piano soloist and accompanist has been recognized widely since she came to Marion from the East. She is a graduat of the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester in Rochester, N. Y. A piano soloist of the Marion Lecture-Recital Club, she is chairman of the club's civic and philanthropic and life membership divisions. In addition, she is active in music work at First Presbyterian Church and is co-chairman of the music committee of the Vernon Junior High School PTA, a member of Quest Club, Marion Association of University Women and of the Columbus Alumnae Chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon. Recently, she was piano soloist at the Odeum Auditorium of the College of Music at Cincinnati on a program commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of Mu Phi Epsilon. In Marion, she has appeared in recital programs, as a soloist, and on the radio.

Organist at First Presbyterian Church 30 years, and known in this area as a music teacher of long standing ability, Mrs. Eliza Williams has specialized in work with young muscians both locally and on district and state levels. Many of her pupils have won special recognition in state music events. She is a past president of Marion Lecture-Recital Club. Havng studied with Walter Keller of Chicago at the Sherwood Music School there, she has had work with Roland Dunham of Ohio Wesleyan University and Edwin Kraft of Cleveland. She holds a Fellowship of the St. Louis Institute of Music. At one time she studed abroad on a music scholarship. She has done extensive piano ensemble work, has made radio appearances frequently and has taken part in Marion's Community Concert endeavor. She is an accompaniest for vocalists frequently, and is a piano and organ soloist of the Lecture-Recital Club of which she is a charter member and in which she has held many offices.

Time of the oratorio presentation Sunday night is 8 o'clock. As in other years, the church doors will be open at 7.

CIO To Elect State Officers

Sen. Humphrey Blasts GOP in Keynote Talk

CINCINNATI (AP)—The state CIO organization, after it elects officers today, will consider resolutions on state and national affairs.

James Griffin of Youngstown was expected to be re-named president, a union spokesman said, and Jacob Clayman of Columbus was expected to remain secretary-treasurer of the 500,000-man union.

A resolution supporting strikers against North American Aviation, Inc., in Columbus, will be introduced at today's session.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) keynoted the convention yesterday with a general blast at Republicans.

He noted he had talked to the national CIO convention in Cleveland last month. Afterward, he said, he read in a number of newspapers that he was undermining the foundation of the republic.

The Minnesota Legislature said he was only trying to undermine the foundations of the Republican party.

"And any resemblance to the republic and the Republican party is purely coincidental," he said.

College Editors Quit in Dispute On Segregation

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Two more editors of the Red and Black, University of Georgia student newspaper which has been torn by a segregation row, have resigned.

Priscilla Arnold of Marietta, acting editor, and Gene Britton of Moultrie, acting managing editor, in Thursday's edition blasted the university for setting up an editorial control board. Then both resigned yesterday.

The controversy started over an editorial against segregation in education. Roy Harris of the Board of Regents discussed the editorial with the publication's editors, and the students claimed he had threatened action to cut off the paper's appropriation. Harris denied this, but later called the editors "squirts."

Editor Walter Lundy Jr., and managing editor Bill Shipp resigned Wednesday protesting what they called "a board of control that would throttle our editorial rights." Miss Arnold and Britton were appointed to replace them.

The university announced that a board had been set up to supervise editorial opinion expressed in the publication.

With the latest resignations, only three persons remained on the weekly paper's official staff today.

More Drought Aid Requested for Ohio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even more federal government help for drought - stricken southern Ohio was urged yesterday by Rep. Polk (D-Ohio).

He urged farmers to write Gov. Frank J. Lausche demanding that 40 counties be declared an emergency drought disaster area.

Thursday Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson approved low interest federal farm loans for the 40 counties, at Lausche's request.

Polk said that would be of "some slight value," but that declaring it a disaster area would make farmers eligible to fuy feed from the fedeal government at low prices.

The President must approve designation of disaster areas.

Polk pointed out many Kentucky farmers can get the low priced feed.

Japanese Government Relaxes Laws on Business Monopolies

TOKYO (UP) — The Japanese government has revised and weakened the occupation-inspired anti-monopoly law designed to break up the "Zaibatsu" firms which dominated the nations's business.

The measure, which will have a tremendous impact on the Japanese economy, was approved by the Diet during the past session and went through almost without notice.

The anti-monopoly law was put into effect as one of the key occupation reforms in a move to break up the "Zaibatsu" and to insure fair and equal competition in both the domestic and international fields.

At the time, many top Japanese businessmen felt the main purpose of the law was to smash Japan's competitive position aborad.

Capital Concentration

However, at the same time, many of Japan's "little businessmen" were very pleased with the law. It gave them an opportunity to exist and compete with the former giants.

One of the effects of the revision of the law, according to Japanese experts, is that it will lead to a concentration of capital.

Some experts say this will be a good thing; they say Japan is suffering from the lack of capital. Others take a less optimistic view.

The revision of the law in some respects merely legalizes what has been going on since the end of the occupation. For some months the smaller firms created by breaking up the "Zaibastsu" have been reuniting. Now they have an official "green light."

Firms in competition with each other now legally may hold stocks on common and have joint officials.

Banks now are permitted to purchase up to 10 percent of the stocks of any company. As a result, Japanese newspapers already are warning that affiliated banks are now in a position to become the 'New Zaibatsu."

The Nippon Times, an important English-language daily published in Tokyo, predicted the revival of monopolies and government aid to some of the large companies.

Effect Of War's End

Cartels also may come into being, the paper said, and warned that they can be expensive to the common people of Japan.

Japanese experts generally agree that the revision of the anti-monopoly law will benefit the big businessmen and work to the disadvantage of the smaller.

However, it also is agreed that many of the smaller Japanese firms are poorly operated and should go out of business if they insist on following "sentimental rather than practical" business methods.

Revision of the anti-monopoly law comes as Japanese business looks to the future with little hope. The end of the Korean war means a tremendous loss of sales. While the government repeatedly points out the benefits Japan will receive from Korean rehabilitation, most businessmen are not so confident.

The Japanese government also is urging the nations's businessmen to increase their trade with southeast Asia. Some progress is being made but prospects are not too bright.

"The government points to many happy breezes." said one Japanese businessman discussing the immediate prospects for trade, "but we are afraid they aren't strong enough to sail our ship."

There are indication the government hopes revision of the anti-monopoly law will provide the extra "breeze" needed by Japan's business world.

Wildcat Well Becomes Top Oil Strike of 1954

KINGMAN, Kan. (UP) — A wildcat oil strike that tested a potential producer of 1,901 barrels a day probably will rank as Kansas' outstanding oil discovery of 1953.

The Texas Company's No. 1 Jake Graber, nine miles southeast of Kingman county's Basil field, flowed 403 barrels of 43.9 gravity oil in 11½ hours through ⅝-inch choke in a preliminary test.

IS THIS YOUR HOUSE??

LINCOLN AVE.—Approximately 200' from East Center. You don't need a car in this location, but if you have one it won't have to set out in the snow and rain. When you see it, you'll say, "IT'S SUCH A PRETTY HOUSE! — wonder what it's like on the inside?"—An aluminum awning graces the entrance. You step into a hall way with convenient guest closet. At first glance you immediately realize that THIS IS NOT THE ORDINARY TYPE OF OLDER HOME. An ambitious family has expressed its individuality in the tasteful combination of paint and wall paper. The living room is restful and inviting; the dining room makes you want to sit down and eat; the kitchen leaves nothing to be desired with its wall and base cabinets, built in automatic washer and breakfast nook. Up-to-date electric wiring eliminates blown fuses. From the dining room, you go upstairs and find a MASTER BEDROOM WITH TWIN CLOSETS. Another nice size bedroom and a nursery. The bathroom has new fixtures with built-in tub and shower. Coming back down again, we find a partially enclosed back porch off the kitchen which makes an ideal utility room. The back yard is completely fenced in for children's safety and in the summer there is a profuse variety of climbing roses and blooming plants. LARGE NEW TYPE WINDOWS in living room and dining room slide on channels and come out easily for indoor cleaning. Last, but not least, a most important item! AUTOMATIC GAS HEAT. This home has had a heap of loving care and for the family that wants all the advantages of a new home but doesn't want to go overboard, price wise. Our whole staff recommends this home as THE BUY OF THE WEEK. It will G.I. It will F.H.A. This will be the finest Christmas present you can give your family. Stop buying a house for your landlord. Phone 2-1572 to see this right now.
